Senate Refuses Cuts in Foreign Aid Money Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate beat back today two attempts to reduce the $3,299,500,000 foreign aid money bill, apparently heeding President Johnson's plea against further cuts in funds "needed for our own security and well being."

It rejected 55 to 28 an amendment by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to reduce funds for supporting economic assistance to defense pact allies from $389 million to the $300 million voted by the House.

It next defeated 53 to 34 an amendment by Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., to cut these funds from $380 to $350 million. Supporting assistance is used to aid the economies of nations on the borders of the Sino-Soviet bloc to enable them to maintain larger military forces than their own resources will allow.

Morse contended "hundreds of millions of dollars" are being wasted on such assistance to Formosa, South Korea and other countries. He said the military forces of most of them could be "licked by ten Boy Scout troops" and their real defenses rest with U.S. military troops.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R. I., floor manager for the bill, argued that the funds enable countries on the periphery of communism to provide soldiers, who, should the program be eliminated, would have to be replaced by Americans.

The Morse amendment was the first to come up as the Senate reached the showdown stage on the badly battered bill.

Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey said that with the President's prestige "on the line," he felt there are sufficient votes to reject a series of amendments aimed at reducing the $3,299,500,000 measure to the $2,810,700,000 voted by the House.

"It will be struggle and a tight squeeze," the Minnesotan told a reporter, "but I think we can make it."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen predicted, however, that the Senate would whack more money from the bill before passage late today. The Senate was called in three hours early for final debate on the controversial bill.

Humphrey said he was confident the Senate would uphold an appropriations committee provision knocking out a House

Racial Show In Moscow Tapers Off

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet police sealed off approaches to the Ghanaian embassy today in the wake of Wednesday's demonstration by 500 Ghanaian and other African students.

Half a dozen African students and about 100 curious Russians gathered on the narrow street leading to the embassy. Police chased the Russians away and prevented male African students from approaching the embassy.

Two girl students were allowed through the street barrier but found the embassy closed, with no one answering the bell. Several newsmen also were allowed to pass but were blocked by police at the embassy entrance.

Ambassador J. B. Elliott's secretary said over the telephone that approaches to the embassy were closed in order to permit repairs to doors and locks that were broken during the demonstration.

When they are repaired, she said, the embassy will reopen. Outside doors, however, seemed undamaged.

Students demonstrated over a report that a Ghanaian student had been killed by a Russian trying to prevent his marrying a Russian girl.

Vyacheslav Yelutin, the Soviet minister of higher education, told the students at a meeting the dead student, Asare Addo, 20, was found apparently frozen to death Friday in a field outside Moscow. The Soviet news agency Tass reported that an autopsy indicated he had been drinking.

Carlos Rojo, 35, was in fair condition with wounds in the stomach, left arm and hand. David Garrett, 34, was treated at a hospital and released. He was struck in the leg by pellets from the .410 gauge shotgun.

The student was turned over to juvenile authorities. State law makes publication of his name privileged unless a complaint is filed.

Thugs Pillage U.S. Air Bases

Moroccans Leave Facilities 'Useless'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Native thieves pillaged U.S. air bases in Morocco before the Air Force turned over the bases to that country, it was learned today.

The bases were picked clean of everything from latrines to electric motors. At least one Arab was electrocuted accidentally.

"These actions are rendering all facilities now closed useless to anyone," said an Air Force report from Morocco.

The report, dated Dec. 2, became available to The Associated Press today, three days after the last of a trio of bases once used by the Strategic Air Command was handed to the Moroccan government.

The United States stopped flying bombers from those bases earlier this year and the Air Force gradually cut back the number of men stationed there.

By the time the $386-million complex was evacuated by U.S. forces this month, the rear guard was down to 150 men and all the equipment the Air Force wished to keep had been shipped out.

In addition to the runways and real estate, the Moroccans fell heir to warehouses, administration buildings, barracks and other facilities that went to make up the bases used by the United States for a decade.

The long list of items stolen included:

All wooden doors, doorlocks, windows and frames, window screens, partitions, electric panels, copper wiring, brass copper and bronze fittings, stainless steel latrine fixtures, mirrors, wash basins.

Metal siding was stripped from a maintenance building.

Poles carrying power lines were sawed off at the ground. Both electrical and communications cable was cut away in sections.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Blankenship and their eight children were left homeless and without clothing when a fire leveled to bed last night. The entire family was sleeping on the first floor of the two story home.

At about 10:30 p. m. Mr. Blankenship was awakened by the sounds of the raging fire. He had just enough time to arouse the rest of the family, bundle them in blankets and rush them outside.

All the contents of the house, including their clothing were burned in the fire.

THE FAMILY was taken to the home of Mrs. Margaret Smallwood, a sister of Mrs. Blankenship.

A call was placed to the Kingston Fire Department, but the blaze was far beyond control by the time they arrived.

Pickaway County Sheriff Walton Spangler said when the volunteer fire fighters saw no other buildings were endangered by the fire they made no attempt to douse the blaze.

The house was owned by David T. Ice of Jackson. Its value was estimated at between $2,500 and $3,000 by authorities. The value of the contents of the home were put at $500.

The eight Blankenship children living in the house ranged from three years of age to 22. Four of the youngsters attend Pickaway Twp. elementary school.

Blankenship is employed by the Pickaway Twp. trustees according to Sheriff Spangler.

ALTHOUGH the exact cause of the fire was not determined, it is thought to be caused by a faulty flue. The blaze started on the second floor.

The house was heated with a woodburning stove which had been heavily fired because of the sub zero temperatures prevailing in the county last night.

Deputy George Linder assisted Sheriff Spangler with the investigation of the fire. It was the first serious fire of the winter.

Soviet Family Due in Ohio

LONDON (AP) — A Russian engineer and his family left by plane today for the United States to spend Christmas as guests of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Portsmouth, Ohio.

Victor Pozdnevsky, 39, his wife and two children arrived from Moscow this morning. The plane was held up for nearly two hours in London to take on additional passengers.

The surprised Pozdnevsky fit the specifications of the Portsmouth organization in its invitation—one member who works in a factory, one who is in school and one who speaks English.

Pozdnevsky and his son Anatoly, 16, work in a factory. Anatoly goes to night school, and Mrs. Pozdnevsky teaches English. The fourth member of the family is Olga, 6.

No-Bid Bridge Deal Studied By Engineers

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Attorneys for Athens County and a county taxpayer have been given until Feb. 1 to file briefs in a taxpayer's suit over awarding of a bridge contract that could have repercussions for county governments throughout the state.

Common Pleas Court Judge John Bolin set the deadline Wednesday after completion of testimony in the suit, which alleges that county officials awarded a contract for the building of one bridge and repair of another to the Ohio Bridge Co., Cambridge, without advertising for bids.

Gabriel Pincelli, Chauncey, filed the suit last October against the county commissioners, engineers, auditor and treasurer.

A witness for Pincelli read a portion of commission meeting minutes which ordered release of $60,556 to the bridge company under "forced account" (Without bidding). Judge Bolin issued a restraining order when the suit was filed preventing the county from paying the money pending the outcome of the case.

Spokesman for the Ohio County Engineers and County Commissioners associations, present at the hearing, said the case is of interest to them since "force amount" payments are standard in several counties.

Dallas Said Not Alone in Evil Climate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D - Ohio, took the Senate floor Wednesday to say that Dallas, Tex., is not the only city in America having "an evil climate wherein the President of the United States could be assassinated."

Young recalled the mauling of Adlai Stevenson a few weeks before President John F. Kennedy was slain in Dallas and what he called "assault" on Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson when the President was campaigning for vice president in 1960 in Dallas.

"Cities which tolerate this atmosphere without concern eventually must pay a heavy price for their negligence," he Ohioan said. "Dallas did."

He said Dallas isn't the only place in the United States "where hatred, intolerance and extremism has been allowed to flourish uncriticized, unhampered and unchecked. Let us hope that the terrible events at Dallas will make all of us more aware of the dangers of intolerance and hatred."

Ex-Mobster's Gems Are Sold for Taxes

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Flashy jewels and trinkets once owned by ex-mobster Mickey Cohen—appraised at about $50,000—were sold Wednesday for about $19,000. The 43 pieces of jewelry were sold by the Internal Revenue Service, which had seized the baubles to help pay off almost $375,000 in back taxes.

New Snow Due; Cold To Remain

Reds Open Holes In Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP)—East German border guards completed the enlargement of two crossing points in the Berlin wall today to speed the passage of thousands of West Berliners who will pour through for Christmas reunions with relatives.

The flow of West Berliners into the Communist sector of the city begins Friday morning. Communist officials appeared to be doing their utmost to avoid traffic jams at the five crossing points in the wall, which was built 28 months ago to prevent the escape of East Germans and to isolate West Berlin.

The Reds felt large lineups at the wall might lead to trouble. The East Germans knocked an additional door - sized hole into the concrete barrier at the pedestrian crossing at Oberbaumbruecke. They also enlarged the vehicle crossing in the Neukoenig district by removing several concrete slabs.

The Communist regime took the unusual step of assigning mostly officers to the work. Apparently they can be more relied upon not to make a break for the West.

Under the agreement between the East German regime and the West Berlin administration of Mayor Willy Brandt, an estimated 800,000 West Berliners will be allowed to visit close relatives on the other side of the wall on one-day passes until Jan. 5.

The Communists have refused to admit most West Berliners to East Berlin since the wall was started in August, 1961. The restriction has not applied to Allied military personnel and non-German civilians.

Long lines of West Berliners waited outside the 12 offices where applications for crossing permits were received. Some complained angrily when the offices closed at 6 p.m. with applicants still waiting in the cold.

Extra police were called to disperse those who refused to leave.

About 24,000 applications were turned over to East German authorities for their approval Wednesday. Under the arrangement, visitors were required to leave East Berlin by midnight.

Ag Harvest Tops Prior Mark by Far

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department's final crop report of the year shows production exceeded the previous record by far.

It said output was 112 per cent of the 1957-59 average compared with 107 per cent last year, and the previous high of 108 per cent in 1960.

A month ago, the department had estimated this year's production at 110 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

Crop acreage was 2 per cent larger than last year and the acreage yields for most crops were at or near record highs.

The indicated acreage for harvest, yield per acre and production, respectively, of important crops this year in Ohio included:

Corn for grain: 2,903,000 acres for harvest, 78 bushels per acre, production 226,434,000 bushels.

Winter wheat: 1,402,000 acres for harvest, 38 bushels per acre, production 27,600,000 pounds.

Sugar beets: 29,200 acres harvested, 13.1 tons per acre, production 383,000 tons.

It'll Be Bitter Again Tonight

NE Ohio Blanket Totals 10 Inches

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow was forecast again today for Northeast Ohio, parts of which received up to 10 inches of snow Wednesday.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Cleveland said light flurries were expected through Saturday before a "slight moderation" brings a letup.

And the weatherman says the bitter cold temperatures will stay in the Buckeye State. Dayton and Cincinnati had lows of seven below zero Wednesday night. It might be colder tonight since the forecast for central and southern parts of the state calls for lows of between five and fifteen below. Northern Ohio will be a little warmer — maybe a shade above zero.

Ten inches of new snow was reported in Chardon, with drifts more than two feet high. Most state highways in Geauga County were reduced to one lane as drifts quickly piled up behind snow plows.

Lake County had two to seven inches of snow Wednesday and Ashtabula County had four to six inches.

But Ohio's snowfall was nothing compared to the white blanket delivered by the weatherman to Muckegon, Mich., which is plowing its way through nearly three feet of the stuff.

The Lake Michigan port city expected another 1 to 3 inches of new snow. This would bring its total accumulation to as much as 37 inches and set more weather records for December. "But every time it snows now

'Cold, Colder' Is Forecast For Tonight

"It's gonna get cold, colder and colder" was the weatherman's greeting at noon today.

The local forecast for tonight calls for lows of 5 to 15 degrees below zero and a high Friday of the same range, but on the plus side of the thermometer.

Strong shifting winds were to reach 15-20 miles per hour during the afternoon, with snow flurries due this evening.

A word of caution was issued today by all area fire departments. Stoves and furnaces should not be overheated, they warned. Periodic checks of flues and chimneys should be made during the subzero weather.

The frigid air mass moved into the Pickaway County area yesterday evening as temperatures dropped to a low of two degrees below zero early this morning. The low reading today was the first subzero weather of the 63-64 winter season.

GOP Rolls Out Big Guns To Blast Johnson Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Republicans are loading their elephant guns for an assault on the spending budget which President Johnson will submit to Congress in January.

Johnson told a news conference Wednesday he intends to cut every possible dime of waste out of the new budget but doesn't know yet what the expenditures total will be.

Informed members of Congress think the total is certain to go over a record $100 billion despite Johnson's efforts to keep the amount down in an election year.

At best the new budget will be only an estimate of how much revenue the government will receive and pay out in the fiscal year beginning next July 1. While spending can be estimated fairly accurately, it is more difficult to forecast revenue.

With a report in hand that the gross national product is passing the $600 billion mark, Johnson conceivably could shave the projected deficit with an optimistic revenue estimate.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois made it clear Republicans are going to watch this process carefully and be ready to pounce on anything they believe they can characterize as excess spending.

Dirksen suggested at a news conference Wednesday that the President might send Congress a pared-down budget which would not stand up for a full year's operations and then ask Congress in 1965 to close the gap with additional appropriations.

I am going to have to have some sound assurances that there are not going to be such supplemental requests for funds before I go along with any spending estimates that are submitted in January," he said.

Johnson said that in trimming the budget he is going to be careful not to sacrifice U.S. security and will not pass up new programs that are needed,

No-Bid Bridge Deal Studied By Engineers

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Attorneys for Athens County and a county taxpayer have been given until Feb. 1 to file briefs in a taxpayer's suit over awarding of a bridge contract that could have repercussions for county governments throughout the state.

Common Pleas Court Judge John Bolin set the deadline Wednesday after completion of testimony in the suit, which alleges that county officials awarded a contract for the building of one bridge and repair of another to the Ohio Bridge Co., Cambridge, without advertising for bids.

Gabriel Pincelli, Chauncey, filed the suit last October against the county commissioners, engineers, auditor and treasurer.

A witness for Pincelli read a portion of commission meeting minutes which ordered release of $60,556 to the bridge company under "forced account" (Without bidding). Judge Bolin issued a restraining order when the suit was filed preventing the county from paying the money pending the outcome of the case.

Spokesman for the Ohio County Engineers and County Commissioners associations, present at the hearing, said the case is of interest to them since "forced account" payments are standard in several counties.

Reds Open Holes In Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP)—East German border guards completed the enlargement of two crossing points in the Berlin wall today to speed the passage of thousands of West Berliners who will pour through for Christmas reunions with relatives.

The flow of West Berliners into the Communist sector of the city begins Friday morning. Communist officials appeared to be doing their utmost to avoid traffic jams at the five crossing points in the wall, which was built 28 months ago to prevent the escape of East Germans and to isolate West Berlin.

The Reds felt large lineups at the wall might lead to trouble. The East Germans knocked an additional door - sized hole into the concrete barrier at the pedestrian crossing at Oberbaumbrücke. They also enlarged the vehicle crossing in the Neukölln district by removing several concrete slabs.

The Communist regime took the unusual step of assigning mostly officers to the work. Apparently they can be more relied upon not to make a break for the West.

Under the agreement between the East German regime and the West Berlin administration of Mayor Willy Brandt, an estimated 800,000 West Berliners will be allowed to visit close relatives on the other side of the wall on one-day passes until Jan. 5.

The Communists have refused to admit most West Berliners to East Berlin since the wall was started in August, 1961. The restriction has not applied to Allied military personnel and non-German civilians.

Long lines of West Berliners waited outside the 12 offices where applications for crossing permits were received. Some complained angrily when the offices closed at 6 p.m. with applicants still waiting in the cold.

Extra police were called to disperse those who refused to leave.

About 24,000 applications were turned over to East German authorities for their approval Wednesday. Under the arrangement, visitors were required to leave East Berlin by midnight.

It'll Be Bitter Again Tonight

NE Ohio Blanket Totals 10 Inches

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow was forecast again today for Northeast Ohio, parts of which received up to 10 inches of snow Wednesday.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Cleveland said light flurries were expected through Saturday before a "slight moderation" brings a letup.

And the weatherman says the bitter cold temperatures will stay in the Buckeye State. Dayton and Cincinnati had lows of seven below zero Wednesday night. It might be colder tonight since the forecast for central and southern parts of the state calls for lows of between five and fifteen below. Northern Ohio will be a little warmer — maybe a shade above zero.

Ten inches of new snow was reported in Chardon, with drifts more than two feet high. Most state highways in Geauga County were reduced to one lane as drifts quickly piled up behind snow plows.

Lake County had two to seven inches of snow Wednesday and Ashtabula County had four to six inches.

But Ohio's snowfall was nothing compared to the white blanket delivered by the weatherman to Muckegon, Mich., which is plowing its way through nearly three feet of the stuff.

Stock Mart Is Irregular

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market headed irregularly lower early this afternoon in moderately active trading.

The market's recent drive to new highs appeared to have run out of gas and profit-taking held sway.

Losses of key stocks went mainly from fractions to a point except for some of the high flyers which lost more.

Motors, airlines, chemicals, electronics and tobacco were among the losers. Rails and utilities remained steady on balance.

Oils, mail order-retails, building materials and electrical equipments were mixed. Rubbers edged higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 286.8 with industrials off .5, rails up .1 and utilities up .3.

McNamara Back In South Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara arrived today for his second on-the-spot survey in three months of the war in South Viet Nam.

"I am here to discuss the progress of the United States program in Viet Nam, the problems we are facing and solutions," McNamara said in a brief airport statement. He leaves for Washington late Friday.

Since his visit in September, the governments of both the United States and South Viet Nam have changed hands. President Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown by a military coup Nov. 1 and killed. President Kennedy was assassinated Nov. 22.

It'll Be Bitter

(Continued from Page One) we set a new record for the month," a Weather Bureau official said. The snow squalls and near - blizzard conditions Wednesday broke five records.

Meanwhile, cold and snow continued to invade most of the eastern half of the nation in a pattern that has held true for nearly a week. The storm that blew in off Lake Michigan and dumped snow on Muskegon at the rate of one inch an hour Tuesday night and early Wednesday was part of a late fall storm centered over southwestern Ontario. It brought mid-winter temperatures and snow to most of the Midwest.

The snowstorm toppled Muskegon's 1962 month of December record of 54.2 inches. The record so far this month is 69.4 inches.

The Weather Bureau measured 15.7 inches in the 24 hours ending at 7 p.m. Wednesday and a record 17.9 inches in the 24 hours ending 12 hours earlier.

Snowplow crews in suburban Muskegon Heights gave up about noon Wednesday after plowing all streets three times in 24 hours with scant progress.

Muskegon main roads were passable, but few side streets were touched by plows. County schools could not send buses for rural pupils.

Muskegon public schools remained open, but Supt. Richard B. Warren left it to the discretion of parents whether to send pupils back to class after the noon recess.

Thickening ice trapped six freighters in or near the Detroit River, which links Lake St. Clair with Lake Erie.

The huge mass of cold air covering northern sections of the nation invaded much of the Southeast, dropping temperatures to near zero in some areas and to freezing along parts of the Gulf Coast from northern Florida westward to south central Texas.

The mercury again plunged to sub-zero levels in most of the Midwest, marking a week of unseasonable cold, along with snow, in many areas. It was 17 below in International Falls, Minn., and in Illinois one of the lowest marks was -14 in Bradford. Gusty winds swept much of the cold belt.

It was the coldest day of the season in Chicago with 7 below, the seventh straight day of sub-zero readings, a record for December.

Temperatures dropped to near zero in Louisville, Ky., and it was 27 in Mobile, Ala. In Florida, low marks included 30 in Tallahassee, 41 in Tampa and 50 in Miami. Atlanta and Chattanooga, Tenn., shivered in the unseasonable cold, with readings of 12 and 13, respectively.

Near zero weather prevailed in sections of the Northeast while generally normal temperatures prevailed in the Far Western sections.

2nd Lawyer In Hoffa Case Is Disbarred

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A former member of the Tennessee Legislature has become the second lawyer barred from federal court practice for being involved in alleged attempts to fix the jury that tried James R. Hoffa here last year.

Harry Beard Jr. of Lebanon, Tenn., a former state representative, was disbarred in an order signed Wednesday by U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller and Frank Gray Jr.

The judges accused Beard of discussing with T. Osborn Jr., Hoffa's Nashville lawyer, proposals on how to get a juror to vote for the acquittal of Hoffa, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Osborn was disbarred by the judges last month and subsequently indicted by a federal grand jury.

Osborn, the judges said, asked Beard to contact the husband of a juror and offer him $10,000. The grand jury indictment in the Osborn case identified the juror's husband as D. M. Harrison.

The judges said Beard appeared before them voluntarily last Friday and admitted discussing the alleged bribe proposals on four occasions.

Last DuPont Founder Dies At Age 86

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Irene du Pont, 86, last of the three brothers who led the Du Pont company from a small explosives manufacturing concern to the position of the world's largest diversified firm, died here today.

o DuPont, who made $2 a week on his first job, was president of the Du Pont empire for seven years, 1919-1926. Upon his retirement he became vice chairman of the board, a position he held until 1940. He served as a member of the finance committee until 1946.

He severed formal connection with the firm in May 1959 when he retired from the board of directors to be succeeded by his son, Irene Jr. But he maintained active interest, visiting his office daily as long as his health permitted.

Born Dec. 21, 1876 near Wilmington, Du Pont always said he based his industrial success on three principles (1) It's nice to be friendly with competitors, (2) A business fails when it doesn't make money, (3) Sometimes a man has to swear at his colleagues to drive home a point.

Du Pont had a strong formative role in the growth of the billion-dollar a-year firm founded by his great grandfather in 1802. As president he led the company into major areas of diversification, directed its reorganization into the decentralized lines under which it now operates.

The seventh Du Pont to head the business, he was the second of the three brothers who in succession were presidents Pierre S. du Pont, the eldest, died in 1954. Lamont du Pont, the youngest, died in 1952.

Jackie, Children Now in Florida

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The task of submerging his sorrow and providing a cheerful Christmas for her two children faces Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Kennedy took the children, Caroline, 6, and John Jr., 3, to the grave of their father in Arlington National Cemetery Wednesday before they flew from Washington to Palm Beach for the holidays. It was John Jr.'s first known visit to the grave.

The holiday plans of Mrs. Kennedy and of the rest of the Kennedy family have not been announced, but it was expected that most would gather at the home of Joseph P. Kennedy, the late President's father.

LBJ Seeks Less Soviet Tension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson evidently has decided to make full use of personal diplomacy to carry out his announced policy of seeking improved relations with the Soviet Union and an eventual end to the cold war.

This raises the possibility of an active period in U.S.-Soviet relations next year, although at the moment officials say no plan for negotiation or meetings has been developed.

The means of personal diplomacy open to the new President include periodic exchange of messages with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, public statements by Johnson specifically designed to influence the course of policies East and West and a meeting with Khrushchev.

Negro Rapists Face Penalty

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three Negro youths were convicted early today of raping a 15-year-old white girl in an attack on her and her male companion in an East Side playground June 12. The Common Court jury deliberated for 13 hours before convicting Charles Clark, 15, Jerome Martin, 16, and Robert Gould, 17, all of Cleveland.

Judge Thomas Parrino delayed sentencing, pending probation and psychiatric reports. The jury found all three boys guilty of aggravated assault on the girl, aggravated assault and battery on her boy friend, aggravated assault on the boy with a knife and aggravated assault on the boy without a weapon.

The incident happened in Sowinski Playground and caused much racial unrest in the area. The girl and her 17-year-old boy friend were hospitalized as a result of the incident.

Dirksen said he had been told that if the Senate does not go along with the House amendment on a roll call vote today "there will be no bill" since both houses will have to agree on a final version of the measure.

Dirksen added, however, that he had heard such threats but "they sometimes fade away in the shadow of the Christmas tree." Leaders are preparing a resolution under which Congress would adjourn Friday and return to work for its second session Jan. 7.

Johnson's letter, addressed Tuesday to Chairman Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., of the Senate Appropriations Committee, was read to the Senate Wednesday by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., floor manager for the bill.

It appealed to the committee to recommend the full $3.6 billion voted in the previous authorization bill. While the committee voted only $3,299,500,000 in new appropriations, it approved the re-appropriation of $209 million in additional funds unspent from last year to make a total of $3,508,500,000 available for the current fiscal year.

Johnsons Plan Christmas At Their Texas Ranch

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is going home to a Texas ranch-style Christmas that features red velvet stockings hung from the mantle, a red-nosed deer and plenty of "kinkfolk."

There had been much speculation that the Johnsons would spend their first Christmas as the First Family at the White House.

But the President told a news conference Wednesday he would be at his Texas ranch to spend Christmas eve "with my sisters and my brother and my uncles and cousins and aunts."

And on Christmas Day, Johnson added, he wants to relax. He said he may go hunting while he's in Texas or spend a day in the hills "communing with myself."

The kinkfolk who drop in on the Johnsons at Christmastime are "innumerable," one aide said, and it's bound to be something of a big reunion.

"If God is willing and Mrs. Johnson is willing," the President said, he will leave for Texas after lighting the national Christmas tree Sunday night in the park area behind the White House. No definite departure time was set.

By the time the President gets home, the traditional yule decorations will be up at his ranch. The Johnsons usually select one of their own home-grown cedar trees and gather up masses of the holly and mistletoe that grow on the 400-acre ranch.

The family traditionally exchanges gifts on Christmas morning and a great deal of secret shopping, by phone and with the aid of friends, has been under way in past days.

Four gay red velvet stockings marked "Lynda," "Lucy," "Mother" and "Father" hang from the mantel on Christmas just for decorative purposes and are filling with Santas and Christmas baubles.

The Johnsons Christmas dinner will be turkey and the trimmings as usual, prepared by ranch cook May Davis. The Johnsons' longtime family cook, Zephyr Wright, prefers to stay home in Washington with her family.

Stock Mart Is Irregular

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market headed irregularly lower early this afternoon in moderately active trading.

The market's recent drive to new highs appeared to have run out of gas and profit-taking held sway.

Losses of key stocks went mainly from fractions to a point except for some of the high fliers which lost more.

Motor, airlines, chemicals, electronics and tobacco were among the losers. Rails and utilities remained steady on balance.

Oils, mail order-retails, building materials and electrical equipments were mixed. Rubbers edged higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 286.8 with industrials off .5, rails up .1 and utilities up .3.

McNamara Back In South Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara arrived today for his second on-the-spot survey in three months of the war in South Viet Nam.

"I am here to discuss the progress of the United States program in Viet Nam, the problems we are facing and solutions," McNamara said in a brief airport statement. He leaves for Washington late Friday.

Since his visit in September, the governments of both the United States and South Viet Nam have changed hands. President Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown by a military coup Nov. 1 and killed. President Kennedy was assassinated Nov. 22.

We set a new record for the month," a Weather Bureau official said. The snow squalls and near-blizzard conditions Wednesday broke five records.

Meanwhile, cold and snow continued to invade most of the eastern half of the nation in a pattern that has held true for nearly a week. The storm that blew in off Lake Michigan and dumped snow on Muskegon at the rate of one inch an hour Tuesday night and early Wednesday was part of a late fall storm centered over southwestern Ontario. It brought mid-winter temperatures and snow to most of the Midwest.

The snowstorm toppled Muskegon's 1962 month of December record of 54.2 inches. The record so far this month is 69.4 inches.

The Weather Bureau measured 15.7 inches in the 24 hours ending at 7 p.m. Wednesday and a record 17.9 inches in the 24 hours ending 12 hours earlier.

Snowplow crews in suburban Muskegon Heights gave up about noon Wednesday after plowing all streets three times in 24 hours with scant progress.

Muskegon main roads were passable, but few side streets were touched by plows. County schools could not send buses for rural pupils.

Muskegon public schools remained open, but Supt. Richard B. Warren left it to the discretion of parents whether to send pupils back to class after the noon recess.

Thickening ice trapped six freighters in or near the Detroit River, which links Lake St. Clair with Lake Erie.

The huge mass of cold air covering northern sections of the nation invaded much of the Southeast, dropping temperatures to near zero in some areas and to freezing along parts of the Gulf Coast from northern Florida westward to south central Texas.

The mercury again plunged to sub-zero levels in most of the Midwest, marking a week of unseasonable cold, along with snow, in many areas. It was 17 below in International Falls, Minn., and in Illinois one of the lowest marks was -14 in Bradford, Gusto winds swept much of the cold belt.

It was the coldest day of the season in Chicago with 7 below, the seventh straight day of sub-zero readings, a record for December.

Temperatures dropped to near zero in Louisville, Ky., and it was 27 in Mobile, Ala. In Florida, low marks included 30 in Tallahassee, 41 in Tampa and 50 in Miami. Atlanta and Chattanooga, Tenn., shivered in the unseasonable cold, with readings of 12 and 13, respectively.

Near zero weather prevailed in sections of the Northeast while generally normal temperatures prevailed in the Far Western sections.

2nd Lawyer In Hoffa Case Is Disbarred

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A former member of the Tennessee Legislature has become the second lawyer barred from federal court practice for being involved in alleged attempts to fix the jury that tried James R. Hoffa here last year.

Harry Beard Jr. of Lebanon, Tenn., a former state representative, was disbarred in an order signed Wednesday by U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller and Frank Gray Jr.

The judges accused Beard of discussing with T. Osborn Jr., Hoffa's Nashville lawyer, proposals on how to get a juror to vote for the acquittal of Hoffa, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Osborn was disbarred by the judges last month and subsequently indicted by a federal grand jury.

Osborn, the judges said, asked Beard to contact the husband of a juror and offer him $10,000. The grand jury indictment in the Osborn case identified the juror's husband as D. M. Harrison.

The judges said Beard appeared before them voluntarily last Friday and admitted discussing the alleged bribe proposals on four occasions.

Last DuPont Founder Dies At Age 86

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Irene du Pont, 86, last of the three brothers who led the Du Pont company from a small explosives manufacturing concern to the position of the world's largest diversified firm, died here today.

o DuPont, who made $2 a week on his first job, was president of the Du Pont empire for seven years, 1919-1926. Upon his retirement he became vice chairman of the board, a position he held until 1940. He served as a member of the finance committee until 1946.

He severed formal connection with the firm in May 1959 when he retired from the board of directors to be succeeded by his son, Irene Jr. But he maintained active interest, visiting his office daily as long as his health permitted.

Born Dec. 21, 1876 near Wilmington, Du Pont always said he based his industrial success on three principles: (1) It's nice to be friendly with competitors. (2) A business fails when it doesn't make money. (3) Sometimes a man has to swear at his colleagues to drive home a point.

Du Pont had a strong formative role in the growth of the billion-dollar-a-year firm founded by his great grandfather in 1802. As president he led the company into major areas of diversification, directed its reorganization into the decentralized lines under which it now operates.

The seventh Du Pont to head the business, he was the second of the three brothers who in succession were presidents: Pierre S. du Pont, the eldest, died in 1954. Lamir du Pont, the youngest, died in 1952.

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The task of submerging her sorrow and providing a cheerful Christmas for her two children faces Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Kennedy took the children, Caroline, 6, and John Jr., 5, to the grave of their father in Arlington National Cemetery Wednesday before they flew from Washington to Palm Beach for the holidays. It was John Jr.'s first known visit to the grave.

The holiday plans of Mrs. Kennedy and of the rest of the Kennedy family have not been announced, but it was expected that most would gather at the home of Joseph P. Kennedy, the late President's father.

LBJ Seeks Less Soviet Tension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson evidently has decided to make full use of personal diplomacy to carry out his announced policy of seeking improved relations with the Soviet Union and an eventual end to the cold war.

This raises the possibility of an active period in U.S.-Soviet relations next year, although at the moment officials say no plan for negotiation or meetings has been developed.

The means of personal diplomacy open to the new President include periodic exchange of messages with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, public statements by Johnson specifically designed to influence the course of policies East and West and a meeting with Khrushchev.

Negro Rapists Face Penalty

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three Negro youths were convicted early today of raping a 15-year-old white girl in an attack on her and her male companion in an East Side playground June 12.

The common court jury deliberated for 13 hours before convicting Charles Clark, 15, Jerome Martin, 16, and Robert Gould, 17, all of Cleveland.

Judge Thomas Parrino delayed sentencing, pending probation and psychiatric reports.

The jury found all three boys guilty of aggravated assault on the girl, aggravated assault and battery on her boy friend, aggravated assault on the boy with a knife and aggravated assault on the boy without a weapon.

The incident happened in Sowinski Playground and caused much racial unrest in the area.

The girl and her 17-year-old boy friend were hospitalized as a result of the incident.

amendment banning export-import bank guarantees for sale of private bank financing of sales of wheat and other surplus commodities to Communist countries.

Dirksen said he had been told that if the Senate does not go along with the House amendment on a roll call vote today "there will be no bill" since both houses will have to agree on a final version of the measure.

Dirksen added, however, that he had heard such threats but "they sometimes fade away in the shadow of the Christmas tree." Leaders are preparing a resolution under which Congress would adjourn Friday and return to work for its second session Jan. 7.

Johnson's letter, addressed Tuesday to Chairman Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., of the Senate Appropriations Committee, was read to the Senate Wednesday by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., floor manager for the bill.

It appealed to the committee to recommend the full $3.6 billion voted in the previous authorization bill. While the committee voted only $3,299,500,000 in new appropriations, it approved the re-appropriation of $209 million in additional funds unspent from last year to make a total of $3,508,500,000 available for the current fiscal year.

Johnsons Plan Christmas At Their Texas Ranch

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is going home to a Texas ranch-style Christmas that features red velvet stockings hung from the mantle, a red-nosed deer and plenty of "kinkfolk."

There had been much speculation that the Johnsons would spend their first Christmas as the First Family at the White House.

But the President told a news conference Wednesday he would be at his Texas ranch to spend Christmas eve "with my sisters and my brother and my uncles and cousins and aunts."

And on Christmas Day, Johnson added, he was going to relax while he's in Texas or spend a day in the hills "communing with myself."

The kinkfolk who drop in on the Johnsons at Christmastime are "innumerable," one aide said, and it's bound to be something of a big reunion.

"If God is willing and Mrs. Johnson is willing," the President said, he will leave for Texas after lighting the national Christmas tree Sunday night in the park area behind the White House. No definite departure time was set.

By the time the President gets home, the traditional yule decorations will be up at his ranch. The Johnsons usually select one of their own home-grown cedar trees and gather up masses of the holly and mistletoe that grow on the 400-acre ranch.

The family traditionally exchanges gifts on Christmas morning and a great deal of secret shopping, by phone and with the aid of friends, has been under way in past days.

Four gay red velvet stockings marked "Lynda," "Lucy," "Mother" and "Father" hang from the mantel on Christmas just for decorative purposes and are filling with Santas and Christmas baubles.

The Johnsons Christmas dinner will be turkey and the trimmings as usual, prepared by ranch cook May Davis. The Johnsons' long-time family cook, Zephyr Wright, prefers to stay home in Washington with her family.

Ohio Gaming Law Faces High Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The long-litigated case involving a Lisbon firm which printed, and allegedly distributed to gambling interests, slips used for writing numbers-racket tickets will be taken up by the Ohio Supreme Court.

The court agreed Wednesday to review the case of four Lisbon Sales Book Co. officials indicted in Columbiana County on charges of violating Ohio's 1961 anti-gambling laws.

The four, who appealed from an Appellate Court order for further proceedings on the charges, are Martin, Isidore and Joseph Sufirin and Michael Scheidmeire, all of Pittsburgh. They are Lisbon Sales Book's top executives.

Columbiana County Common Pleas Court held the 1961 apt. sponsored by then Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy, unconstitutional and quashed the indictments. Prosecutor G. William Brokaw, with McElroy's first Asst. Atty. Gen. Theodore R. Saker helping as special counsel, appealed and the Appellate Court ruled the new anti-gambling regulations constitutional and the indictments valid.

The statutes provide a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine and three years in prison. The officials contended they had no way of knowing their product would be used in writing numbers game bets.

Ohio Impacted Schools To Get More U.S. Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio is in line for a $6,639,900 increase in federal payments to impacted area schools, according to a breakdown of added funds senators say they plan to include in a final appropriation before adjourning.

Listed as presently available to Ohio is $664,200. Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said a $216,204,000 increment in such payments nationwide was authorized in the federal school aid legislation signed by President Johnson Wednesday.

Catholic Hospital In Kenton Is Sold

KENTON, Ohio (AP) — Kenton's San Antonio Hospital, a Catholic hospital owned and operated by the Sisters of Charity, has been sold to the Hardin Memorial Hospital Board, it was announced today.

The board announced that it had received a $175,000 loan toward the purchase price from Nationwide Insurance companies. The full purchase price was reported to be $200,000. Transfer of the hospital to Hardin Memorial's board will take place at midnight, Dec. 31.

Santa and the Haunted House

By LUCRECIE BEALE

Synopsis: Santa met Nog in the Haunted House. To show the power of the purple stone, he changed himself into a weak old woman. Nog snatched the charm from him and turned himself into Santa Claus.

CHAPTER 15 NOG'S CHRISTMAS PLANS

The children peeping through the window, gasped in horror to see Santa turn into an old woman and Nog turn into Santa right before their eyes.

They crouched in the bushes beside the house and tried to think what to do.

Jeremy clenched his hands and whispered, "I'm going in there. Nog's not much bigger than I am. I'll—"

"But, he has the purple stone!" hissed Sissy. "He could turn you into a spider or a worm or anything!"

"But what's going to happen if Nog is Santa!" moaned Jeremy.

At that moment Nog was explaining to the real Santa exactly what was going to happen.

"This is better than anything I had hoped for," he exclaimed as he gleefully waved the purple stone under Santa's nose. "I shall go to Santa Land and turn all your workers into jellyfish."

Poor Santa stood there, bent and crippled, leaning on his old woman's stick, hardly able to see from the old woman's aged eyes. "Christmas is only two days away," he quavered.

"Be Santa if you like and do what you want with me. But let the children have their Christmas."

"Of course," cried Nog. "They will have a Christmas they will never forget and they will never want another Christmas after this!"

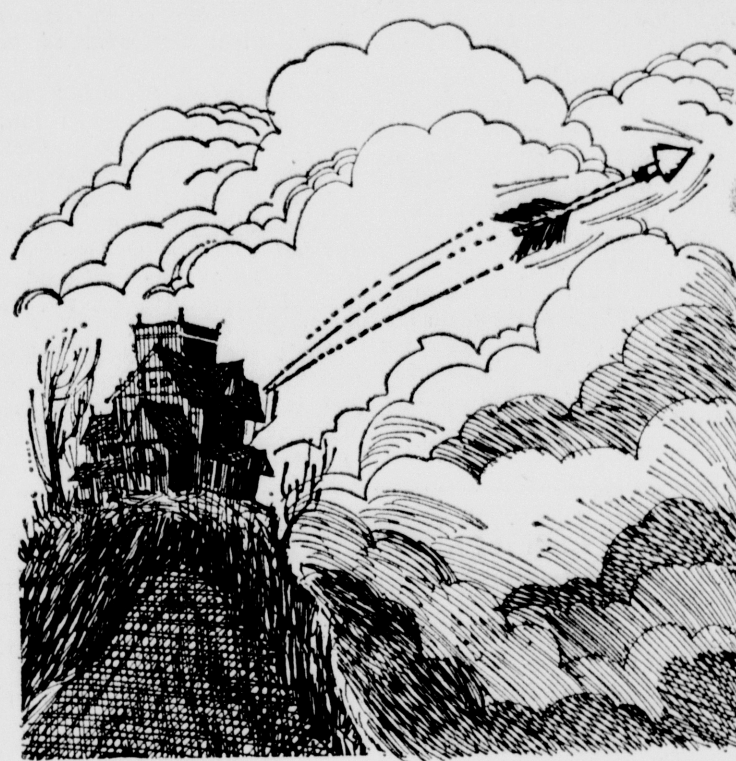

"What will you do?" asked Santa, trembling with rheumatism.

"I shall fill all their stockings with hot black tar," cried Nog, dancing up and down at the thought of it. "I'll give them boxes of candy stuffed with stomach cramps. I'll leave each mother a list of all the bad things her child has done that she doesn't know about."

"Oh, wicked Nog!" cried Santa.

"And last but not least," said Nog, "I'll leave them all bundles of matches that look like jackstraws and when they play with them they will burn the house down!"

"Horrors, horrors!" cried Santa. Helpless tears rolled down his wrinkled cheeks.

Changing himself into an arrow, he shot from the house.

"Perhaps when I finish my Christmas eve journey I'll stop by here and see how you are doing," said Nog. "Though I don't expect you'll last long — a poor old woman, unable to move or help herself! Well, Merry Christmas."

With that, Nog rubbed the purple stone and changing himself into a winged arrow, shot from the house.

As soon as he had gone Jeremy and Sissy and Miss Jo giggled out of their hiding places and burst into the Haunted House. They found poor Santa trembling on a broken-down orange crate, head bent over a crooked cane, tears rolling down wrinkled cheeks.

He stared at the children through his age-dimmed eyes. Then he gasped and his hands shook and he whispered, "Thank goodness you are here!"

"Don't cry," said Sissy, putting her curls against the wrinkled cheeks. "We'll help you."

"It's not me that's crying," said Santa. "It's the old woman I've become. I can't help it. I can't walk or do anything."

"We'll take you to our house," exclaimed Miss Jo. "We'll feed you and keep you warm and take care of you forever and ever."

Santa shook his head. "It's

Electrician's Death Near Dayton Probed

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Greene County coroner scheduled an autopsy for today to determine why a 33-year-old Delaware, Ohio, electrician died at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base Wednesday. William Walter Bounds, who had been installing a low-voltage alarm system in a building, was found face down on the floor.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he will decide when and how to hold news conferences according to "what comes naturally."

What has come naturally to him so far is something between the news conferences of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman and those of Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy.

Roosevelt and Truman met with newsmen—far oftener than Eisenhower and Kennedy—in their offices but what they said could seldom be quoted directly.

Eisenhower and Kennedy held their conferences in full view of cameras—in Kennedy's case, before live television cameras—and what they said was the public record.

Johnson, like Roosevelt and Truman, has met twice with newsmen in his office, without benefit of television or radio, but, like Eisenhower and Kennedy, what he has said so far has been directly attributed to him.

When the mood seizes him, Johnson may meet the press before live television cameras. He has foreclosed nothing, promised nothing specific.

Asked what kind of conferences he planned to hold, he said: "Maybe it will be a meeting of this kind today; maybe a televised meeting tomorrow; with maybe a coffee session the next day."

His first news conference, Dec. 8, was a coffee session. If he keeps up his present pace, two conferences in 10 days, he will outdistance Eisenhower and Kennedy and be more in the Roosevelt-Truman tradition.

Roosevelt held 998 conferences in 12 years, an average of 83 a year; Truman, 324 conferences in almost eight years, averaging 41 a year; Eisenhower, 198 conferences in eight years, averaging 24; and Kennedy, 64 in just under three years, an average of 21 a year.

While the Eisenhower-Kennedy conferences were televised, Eisenhower's could not be released until after the conference. Kennedy's were live.

Reporters rushing to a phone after an Eisenhower conference could not quote him directly. Permission for this was given only after White House aides went over the transcript of the president's remarks for errors.

Kennedy's statements, since they were on television as he gave them, instantly were public property.

The appearance of Eisenhower and Kennedy on television had a great public advantage.

All the people of the nation could watch their president in action and form their own judgments. But the meetings with the press had a couple of disadvantages. In the first place, they were huge affairs.

Thus they included newsmen with questions of a minor nature and of interest to only one locality, and perhaps a small one. Sometimes they were the kind that could have been answered by a call to a White House aide.

Chocolate Cake Is Taboo Now

By BOB SALMON (For Hal Boyle)

BOSTON (AP) — We don't have chocolate cake at our house anymore. It's too exhausting.

We have children, little children.

Actually, Karen isn't too bad. She's 8 and she's been out in the world a good deal, weathering through first and second grade and all that. She doesn't do anything to a chocolate layer cake that really can't be repaired—as long as you have a sponge, dish cloth, broom and mop.

But Bootsie, who is going on 6, seems to think that chocolate layer cake should be attacked from the middle—with a spoon, yet.

And that comes after she has reapplied the chocolate frosting from the top and sides to the other exposed surfaces of the cake—and to her wrists, sleeves, chair and nose.

That line of frosting running across the middle of the slice seems to activate this furious pursuit of curiosity. Bootsie can't figure out how her mother got the frosting into the middle of the cake in the first place.

She goes about that part first, digging it out with a methodicalism that would shame an auditor. And if this doesn't seem difficult, just try to dig out frosting from the middle of a chocolate layer cake with a spoon.

It'll come out, all right. But so will the bolts of an automobile license plate on the morning of Jan. 1.

About this time I've finished my slice of cake and am starting in seriously on my coffee. That's when my downfall begins.

I keep telling myself, "Don't look up. Mind your own business. Drink your coffee. Don't look up. Don't be a busybody."

At about that first look, Bootsie's usually pretty well losing her battle. The cake has crumbled. Frosting has scattered to neutral corners, to Bootsie, the chair, and the floor.

Don't get me wrong. I love chocolate cake. It's just that we had it for dessert again last night. It'll take me a few days to regroup my nerves.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Painful menstrual periods (dysmenorrhea) are physically and emotionally devastating to teenagers and young adolescents.

Even the anticipation of the constant recurring cycle of pain becomes a severe psychological burden.

A simple exercise was recently developed that seems to offer a great deal of relief without over-exertion. Dr. Leib J. Golub and his associates at the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia have devised a series of effective body movements.

These exercises are indications of more complicated ones that have been tried with gratifying success. The initial study of more than 5,000 young women had demonstrated marked relief from dysmenorrhea with a program of exercise named after its creators.

The new and modified exercise of Dr. Golub has been successfully tried by 4,000 girls of high school and college age. When executed properly, its twisting and bending technique brought immeasurable comfort during this time of physical distress.

Dr. Golub describes the exercise in the following way:

In a standing position with arms raised sideward at shoulder height, the trunk is turned to one side. The knees are kept straight while the girl, twisting and bending the trunk, touches her foot with opposite hand (right foot, left hand, left foot, right hand). An attempt is made to reach around the outer side of the foot and touch the heel.

At first, the exercise is performed four times on each side as a unit, this unit being repeated three times daily. Gradually, the number of exercises on each side is increased until a unit consists of ten on each side.

It is not a gymnastic or vigorous energy consuming technique. Nevertheless it is wise to consult your own physician and ask if this method can be used in conjunction with his recommendation for relief from uncomplicated dysmenorrhea.

For it must be emphasized that even before such relatively easy exercise can be used, complete medical examination should first rule out any organic cause for excessive menstrual pain.

A state-wide training program for ambulance drivers has been established as a pilot study in Maryland by the United States Public Health Service.

Ambulance drivers and all other personnel engaged in emergency medical service are being taught life-saving techniques for a wide variety of situations.

Dr. Paul V. Joliet, head of the Division of Accident Prevention of the United States Public Health Service, says that many leading surgeons believe that better emergency procedures would reduce the number of permanent disabilities and even deaths in traffic accidents and other medical emergencies.

The educational program will include every phase of mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration, transportation of patients with back and neck injuries, emergency care of the emotionally disturbed, and even emergency obstetrical deliveries.

Safe rules of driving will be emphasized in the program to eliminate the hazards to pedestrians caused by flagrant violations of traffic regulations.

It is hoped that the success of this program in Maryland will be extended everywhere.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

CLEANING up his cluttered desk for the first time in months, a successful but careless business man found wedged into a crack at the bottom of one of the drawers a redemption check for a pair of shoes he had left for repair way back in 1933—thirty years ago.

The shop, he knew, still existed, just around the corner, with the same sign on the outside: "Joe Antonio: Shoes Repaired While You Wait."

More or less as a joke, the business man presented the check at Antonio's, saying, "I know it's thirty years since I left these shoes here, but it occurred to me you just might be able to find them." "Wait here. I go see," said the unsmiling Mr. Antonio. He handed back the check a moment later, explaining gravely, "They'll be ready Tuesday."

At a Coney Island boardwalk cafe, a rather disheveled individual disclosed that he had been married eight times. "Are you married now?" he was asked. He answered angrily, "Do you think I'm a sucker?"

LONGER HOLIDAY HOURS FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

Toward Economic Isolation

By John Chamberlain

When Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht, the German financial wizard of the nineteen thirties, began cooking up all sorts of tricks to keep his master Hitler from having a balance of payments problem, the world trading community regarded it as hitting below the belt. The bilateral barter deals that exchanged German aspirin in for Balkan tobacco without recourse to the foreign exchange market effectively kept individual aspirin and tobacco merchants from bidding for the business. Nobody liked Schacht's methods, which were condemned as German isolationism and autarchy.

Having fought a war to get rid of Schacht, the United States should be the last country in the world to go in for the old Nazi's autarchical methods. But what is the proposed tax on American purchases of new foreign securities but a Schachtian device? In essence, it draws an effective political circle around the amount of money which foreign enterprises might hope to raise in the United States. Moreover, it does this at a time when we are preaching to Latin American members of the Alliance for Progress that they should be putting much greater reliance on international private investment. No only is the proposed penalty on Americans who want to lend abroad a Schochian trick; it is also an indication that we are becoming a nation of hypocrites.

The answer of those who want to keep Americans from sending dollars overseas to buy foreign securities is that we must be pragmatic. The dollars, we are told, are tickets that are cashable for our dwindling gold supply, and the pragmatists boast that the very hint of penalties on buying foreign securities has already helped our balance of payments situation. Europeans are ceasing to borrow money in this country.

The trouble with the purely pragmatic approach is that it boomerangs. No nation that prides itself on being strong bastion of democratic capitalism, a position that presupposes the desirability of a free flow of investment capital across political borders, can trifle with its principles without causing reprisals. If foreign enterprises are cut off from access to private investment funds in the world's strongest and most fecund economy, they will turn to their own governments for help. Socialism will get some more converts, and a United States of America that has exhibited such distrust in the operation of capitalist financial techniques will find that its dollar is less and less respected.

Even from the pragmatic point of view the proposed tax on purchases of foreign securities has its shortcomings. During the nineteenth century Britishers who couldn't find use for their growing capital at home deployed it all over the world. They built railroads in the United States and in the Argentine. They were engaged in insuring foreigners' transactions everywhere. Their ships carried foreign goods from one foreign port to another. The result was a vast flow of income to Britain from everywhere.

This money helped balance the pounds Sterling and the gold which Britain had to pony up for the foodstuffs and raw materials she had to import to live. Yet the initial sacrifice of pounds and gold needed to pay for Illinois Central Railroad securities, for example, was a drain on the British treasury. The pragmatists of the day might have objected to letting money go out of England if they had thought in Washington's present - day terms. And if they had succeeded in stopping the export of British capital they would have foreclosed the British future.

In a brilliant speech at the recent Investment Bankers Association convention in Hollywood, Fla., Andrew Overby, a New York banker who was formerly Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, remarked that the proposed tax on foreign securities purchases would hurt the U. S. balance of payments in the long run without doing it much good for the short run, and, in a report issued by Overby's IBA foreign investment committee, the tax was described as "not a tax at all, but rather a protective tariff to limit the importation of foreign securities." In short, economic isolationism — and this at a time when we are hoping to say good-bye to all that.

Arraignment Scheduled For 'Respectable' Thug

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP)—Bedside arraignment was scheduled in Wilson Memorial Hospital today for the respectable contractor turned accused bank robber who has this city of 15,000 thoroughly puzzled.

U. S. Commissioner Robert Snell planned a trip here from Dayton to arraign Lloyd Blackford, 33, and probably set a $25,000 bond on the man who is under around-the-clock police guard in the hospital.

Blackford is charged with being the holdup man who wore a blonde woman's wig and woman's garb in stealing several thousand dollars from the First National Exchange Bank's Michigan Street branch. He and a young woman hostage were wounded in the gunfight with police which quickly thwarted the robbery Tuesday.

A shotgun pellet was removed from Blackford's neck Wednesday.

Dr. Ross Wilhide pastor of Sidney's First Methodist Church—where Blackford was an usher—echoed many townspeople when he said: "I think something snapped in his mental processes."

Blackford and his wife were in church Sunday, the minister recalled. "They're just not this kind of people," Dr. Wilhide said. "Their standing in the community is unquestioned."

Yet police plan to question Blackford about two previous robberies of the same branch bank. In each case a lone masked gunman committed the crime. On Nov. 5, 1962, the robber fled with $6,705. On Feb. 13, 1963, the robber escaped with $13,189. Police Chief John L. Warner said there were certain similarities about all three holdups.

But there seemed to be nothing in Blackford's background to link him to such events.

The rising young businessman's wife said Wednesday, "We didn't live luxuriously but comfortably. We bought what Christmas presents we could afford and were looking forward with great anticipation to Christmas coming."

Holiday decorations are up at the Blackford's $20,000 ranch home outside the city. It has a playhouse at the rear for the couple's two young sons. A neighbor described Blackford as "at the top of his career, working 16 to 18 hours a day, a perfect father."

BAKER WITNESS—The widow of a former business partner of Robert G. (Bobby) Baker, resigned Senate Democratic secretary whose outside interests are under investigation in Washington, takes the oath before testifying before the Senate Rules Committee. The widow, Mrs. Gertrude C. Novak, told the televised hearing she did not believe her husband, Alfred Novak, committed suicide because of business dealings with Baker.

Turnpike Aide Returns GI's Lost Gifts

CLEVELAND (AP)—There's good news today for Air Force S.Sgt. Elwood Kramer of Forsyth, Mich., who is spending the holidays with his family and relatives in Nutley, N.J. You will be getting your Christmas presents shortly.

Donald E. Weillnau of Milan, Ohio, an Ohio Turnpike maintenance employee, found a big cardboard box off the eastbound roadway of the toll road Tuesday.

The box contained wrapped and unwrapped Christmas presents, but very little identification. Turnpike employees finally determined that Kramer lived in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and contacted the Red Cross in Forsyth.

Kramer finally was located in Nutley, staying with a family named Scranton. He said he knew the big box had blown off the top of his car as he drove along the turnpike, but he thought he lost it in Pennsylvania. It was near Amherst, Ohio, that the box was found. It contained a model electric train and many other toys and presents.

Ohio Idle Pay Claims Show New Increase
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Both new and continued claims for unemployment benefits showed an increase for the week ended Dec. 14.

The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reported Wednesday that new claims for the period totaled 19,894, compared to 17,355 for the week ended Dec. 7. Continued claims reached 82,849, compared to 79,033 for the week ended Dec. 7.

bribe for a vote was corroborated Wednesday night by Fatica.

The reporter, Tod Simon of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, will be heard by a grand jury investigating the case. Simon said he asked Fatica Nov. 27, the day after a Democratic caucus chose a candidate for Council president, whether anyone had tried to buy Fatica's vote.

Simon quote Fatica as saying at that time: "Nobody approached me."

It was Fatica who exploded a bombshell Monday with allegations that Councilman James V. Stanton tried to solicit his vote for Council president with an "inference" that Fatica would receive $1,000 and a job in the city administration.

Stanton has called the charges a lie and a smear. He contends the allegations were raised in an effort to nullify the action of the Nov. 26 caucus. At that session Stanton supporters won out over supporters of Jack P. Russell, veteran Council president.

Fatica was reached Wednesday night in Staunton, Va., where he and his wife had gone Tuesday night to return their son from a military school for the holidays.

Fatica said Simon quoted him correctly, but the councilman added he had held back what he termed the true information because "I hadn't searched my mind."

"That's exactly what I said in my original statement," Fatica said. "It wasn't an easy thing to do. I had to ponder it over in my mind, had to search my conscience."

Asked whether there actually had been an offer when he told Simon there had not been, Fatica replied: "Actually," meaning yes, there had been an offer.

Fatica was not on hand as the grand jury launched its investigation Wednesday. His wife has supported his version of a conversation with Stanton at the Fatica home the day before the caucus.

The grand jury heard 10 witnesses, including six councilmen, before recessing until Monday morning.

Stanton, the Faticas and Simon are among nine more witnesses to be heard at that time.

House Plants
Are Festive
Holiday Gifts

By ELEANOR ROSS

Holiday plants are more numerous than ever this year. Shop windows are beginning to glow with the glorious colors of nature's blossoms.

Flowering and foliage gifts, set off by the reddish clay pots, are always welcome at any time of year, but as gifts during the festive season they seem to take an added charm.

Colorful chrysanthemums add immeasurably to the late fall and Christmas scene. Now professionally grown to give more blossom on shorter stems, mums come in a rainbow of colors, including, of course, the traditional yellow. They thrive best in cool temperature and exposed to good, bright light. Their soil should be kept evenly moist but not constantly wet, so their porous clay containers will take care of the excess moisture and allow it to evaporate.

Handsome foliage plants, some so beautiful that blossoms aren't necessary, make wonderful hostess gifts. The red, green, and yellow crotons or those with veins on mahogany leaves are exquisite. Perhaps a podocarpus, or a self-heading philodendron, trained on a bark support, would be just the thing.

Of course the poinsettia is the traditional Christmas plant. The red variety is the most popular, but there is a growing demand for white, pink and partially double varieties. Here is a plant that likes a warm room, just as people do.

The poinsettia should be kept out of cold draft and away from hot radiators or air vents. Use warmish water when applying moisture. Keep the air in the room a bit moist by setting the plant on a saucer of water filled with pebbles so the base of the pot is kept above water level. This is to keep water evaporating around the plant and yet not have the pot constantly immersed in water, thus avoiding water-logged roots.

The brilliant Jerusalem cherry is one of the least expensive potted plants. It is so right for the holiday season, too.

It needs bright light and likes a cool temperature no higher than 55 degrees at night for the best possible results. Keep it away from cooking gas fumes or the fruit will drop.

The Christmas pepper is handled much the same way as the Jerusalem cherry, requiring good light and a cool temperature. If the plant is not adequately watered, the leaves will dry up and the fruit disintegrate.

Among the smaller pot plants, kalanchoe and African violets are liked for Christmas. A white-flowering African violet in its red clay pot, all dressed up with a bright red or green bow, seems ideally suited for Christmas. And the kalanchoe's brilliant orange-red blossoms sparkle like tree lights.

A decorative wrapping foil or Christmas wrapping paper will add to the colorful gift, but the wrappings should be discarded as soon as possible.

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren
Which Is Real Dog?

DEAR ABBY: I recently had to get rid of our dog (she was only a puppy) because my husband abused her so terribly. If anything happened at the shop or if he became upset around the house, he'd kick that poor little dog within an inch of her life. He says it's better to take it out on a dog than a person. Is that a good enough excuse? He is 33 years old and in good health, but I can't understand such cruel actions. Do you think something could be the matter with him? Mentally, I mean.

WORRIED WIFE
DEAR WORRIED: You are worried with good reason. Getting rid of the dog did not solve your problem. The hostility that motivated your husband to abuse the pup is still with him. Your husband may appear to be "in good health," but he could well be mentally or emotionally upset. (P.S. And some will say you threw out the wrong dog!)

DEAR ABBY: I wish my in-laws would stop sending us gifts! They are so one-sided in their giving. I don't mean to sound like an ingrate, but at Christmas and on birthdays they give us so much that I feel like a piker because we can't give them anything to match it. How can this be handled?

"THAT GIRL OUR SON MARRIED"
DEAR "THAT": Your signature revealed more information than your letter. You never have felt "accepted" by your in-laws. And if they gave you less, you'd probably complain more.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and I've got a problem. His name is Paul and he doesn't even know I'm alive. Every girl in school has flipped for him, including me. Some of the kids I hang around with have tried to find out if he likes me, but he doesn't say anything. I am not bad looking. In fact some people think I am cute. I have long blonde hair (natural) and large blue eyes. I've got everything but a good figure. (No curves.) I don't expect you to work miracles, Abby. I just want a little help in getting this guy to notice me.

BOY TROUBLE
DEAR TROUBLE: Sometimes the more "help" a girl has trying to get a boy to notice her, the faster he runs—away. Don't try too hard, and tell your friends to quit "helping" you, and you might catch him through the novelty of your indifference.

Put cloths in a pan of hot water to which a handful of salt has been added; helps to remove the sand.

Hillsboro Man Dies When Pinned by Tree
HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP)—The coroner has ruled that Lee D. Kelley, 29, died of suffocation while pinned under a tree. Coroner Glenn Doan said the victim and his father, Burch Kelley, were trimming a tree Wednesday when it shifted and pinned Kelley to the ground, face down. The accident happened on Kelley's nearby farm.

Germans Are Working Hard For Good Living Standard

By OMER ANDERSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

BONN, West Germany — The Germans have a word for it—"Gründlichkeit."

This is the Teutonic thoroughness, a word symbolizing German industry ("fleissigkeit") as well as the leave-nothing-to-chance aspect of the German national character.

The Germans are especially proud of the aphorism, "The rest of the world works to live, but we Germans live to work." And so it surely seems. The proof is the rise of the German phoenix from the ashes of World War II.

But is German character as immutable as the universal cliché, "the hard-working Germans," would convey? The chief heretic in this respect is the man who should know — Ludwig Erhard. Not only is he now the German chancellor, but he is the architect of Germany's postwar recovery miracle.

Erhard spends very little time these days, however, in rejoicing over the miracle wrought. Rather, he warns his "hard working Germans" incessantly that they are growing lazy ("faul").

The chancellor is campaigning against further cuts in the work week, which have reduced it from 48 to 42 hours. This has not been done to provide more jobs — West Germany has the world's worst labor shortage — but simply because German labor demands more leisure.

Erhard is telling the Germans that they have the option of working harder or of cutting their living standard.

American production experts visiting Germany recently echo Erhard. They are appalled at the change that has come over the Germans. Some of them say efficiency in German factories has sunk to levels intolerable in the United States.

It is not all that black, of course. And it is not accurate to say that German's 850,000 "imported" Italian, Spanish and Greek workers are carrying the main burden of production.

However, the affluent life has overtaken the Germans, and the proof that the Germans like the rest of the world, now wor k to live is Daimler Benz's crowning creation, the Grand Mercedes 600, costing $15,000.

The Grand Mercedes, compares with Britain's Rolls Royce as the ultimate automobile. However, the Mercedes is more than tremendous transportation.

It symbolizes the cresting of the German boom, the capping of the recovery miracle. It fills the void of the missing status symbol. No longer will Germany's red-faced tycoons be compelled to ride in Rolls Royces, Cadillacs, Imperials or Lincolns.

Marietta Renewal Funds Are Assured

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Urban Renewal Administration has just received a $148,312 advance to Marietta, Ohio, to plan its Project A Urban renewal project. The project will permit expansion of Marietta College. The URA says a $1,212,452 grant is earmarked for the project in anticipation of a future application.

Middletown Man Gets Term in Penitentiary

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Ollie Lee Lige, 32, of Middletown has been sentenced to an indeterminate penitentiary term for killing Frank Smith, 21, in a quarrel over a woman Sept. 20. Common Pleas Court Judge Fred B. Cramer sentenced Lige Wednesday after finding him guilty of first degree manslaughter.

Add a pinch of ginger and one of nutmeg plus sugar for sweetening to a half pint of heavy cream that is to be whipped and served atop a mildly-flavored pumpkin pie.

Good Policy To Train Family Pooch

By ELEANOR ROSS

Having next door neighbor problems? Don't know why, because you certainly have always tried to be a good neighbor?

Maybe it's because the family pooch has bad manners! Dogs are often the reason for neighborhood squabbles, rows that sometimes spill over into court cases.

City officials and newspaper editors constantly receive letters of complaint about dogs. But the blame doesn't always rest with the dog. Only too often, it lies with the dog's owner.

A sense of civic and community responsibility is a human quality — not an animal quality.

What to do? Well, an important group of dog breeders and owners have formed a non-profit organization, the Dog Owners Association of America.

Canine good behavior, or dog etiquette, doesn't happen naturally, says the organization's president. It's the result of training, care and understanding. And this is something to think about as the holiday season often means gift puppies.

The training of the cute canine should start right from the beginning, and requires a good deal of patience, consistent care and training. But once the dog is properly trained, he can be and invariably is, a joy to owners and neighbors alike.

Here are some excellent suggestions offered by Fred A. Finkl, president of the Dog Owners Association. Don't be afraid to scold dogs firmly and consistently when they are caught on the furniture or in waste baskets or garbage cans. If scolding alone doesn't work, set one or two unbaited mouse traps under paper, on or around forbidden objects — but always under paper. When the dog touches the paper he will set off the trap, but will suffer no injury. The noise made by the snapping trap does 'he trick. This method also teaches dogs not to scratch at screen doors.

Dogs like to jump on people and to some folks this is more than annoying.

When poochie jumps on you, grab his front legs and rush him backwards while firmly saying "No." Be consistent in your scolding. He will get the idea soon enough.

No need to frost a banana cake if you serve it soon after it comes from the oven. Treat it like a pudding: cut it in squares and pass a lemon sauce. The pudding-cake may be further embellished for company by adding an extra accompaniment of whipped cream or whipped soft cream cheese. A little finely grated lemon rind will look pretty sprinkled omer the cream or cheese.

Dogs often chew from sheer boredom and also because chewing is natural to them. They use their teeth for tearing food, gnawing bones and for self-defense. So give the dog something to chew on. Toy bones, of nylon, plastic or rubber are inexpensive. Buy him one, let him know it is his. Don't take it away.

Teach you dog not to steal food from the table. Try scolding him when he shows interest in food on the table.

If this doesn't work try the mouse trap treatment, making sure that it won't harm the hound. Place it so that it will go off before he can get to the food.

The first time a dog tries to bite, slap him lightly but firmly under the chin, while scolding severely. Use a harsh tone of voice — this is what reaches him. Repeat the punishment whenever biting occurs, until the dog learns not to bite. Praise him when he learns.

Finally, keep your dog well-fed, happy and cared-for. And be pleasant yourself, for animals reflect the traits and dispositions of their owners. One sure way to have a badly-behaved dog is to be a bad dog owner.

House Plants
Are Festive
Holiday Gifts

By ELEANOR ROSS

Holiday plants are more numerous than ever this year. Shop windows are beginning to glow with the glorious colors of nature's blossoms.

Flowering and foliage gifts, set off by the reddish clay pots, are always welcome at any time of year, but as gifts during the festive season they seem to take an added charm.

Colorful chrysanthemums add immeasurably to the late fall and Christmas scene. Now professionally grown to give more blossom on shorter stems, mums come in a rainbow of colors, including, of course, the traditional yellow. They thrive best in cool temperature and exposed to good, bright light. Their soil should be kept evenly moist but not constantly wet, so their porous clay containers will take care of the excess moisture and allow it to evaporate.

Handsome foliage plants, some so beautiful that blossoms aren't necessary, make wonderful hostess gifts. The red, green, and yellow crotons or those with veins on mahogany leaves are exquisite. Perhaps a podocarpus, or a self-heading philodendron, trained on a bark support, would be just the thing.

Of course the poinsettia is the traditional Christmas plant. The red variety is the most popular, but there is a growing demand for white, pink and partially double varieties. Here is a plant that likes a warm room, just as people do.

The poinsettia should be kept out of cold draft and away from hot radiators or air vents. Use warmish water when applying moisture. Keep the air in the room a bit moist by setting the plant on a saucer of water filled with pebbles so the base of the pot is kept above water level. This is to keep water evaporating around the plant and yet not have the pot constantly immersed in water, thus avoiding water-logged roots.

The brilliant Jerusalem cherry is one of the least expensive potted plants. It is so right for the holiday season, too.

It needs bright light and likes a cool temperature no higher than 55 degrees at night for the best possible results. Keep it away from cooking gas fumes or the fruit will drop.

The Christmas pepper is handled much the same way as the Jerusalem cherry, requiring good light and a cool temperature. If the plant is not adequately watered, the leaves will dry up and the fruit disintegrate.

Among the smaller pot plants, kalanchoe and African violets are liked for Christmas. A white-flowering African violet in its red clay pot, all dressed up with a bright red or green bow, seems ideally suited for Christmas. And the kalanchoe's brilliant orange-red blossoms sparkle like tree lights.

A decorative wrapping foil or Christmas wrapping paper will add to the colorful gift, but the wrappings should be discarded as soon as possible.

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

Which Is Real Dog?

DEAR ABBY: I recently had to get rid of our dog (she was only a puppy) because my husband abused her so terribly. If anything happened at the shop or if he became upset around the house, he'd kick that poor little dog within an inch of her life. He says it's better to take it out on a dog than a person. Is that a good enough excuse? He is 33 years old and in good health, but I can't understand such cruel actions. Do you think something could be the matter with him? Mentally, I mean.

WORRIED WIFE
DEAR ABBY: You are worried with good reason. Getting rid of the dog did not solve your problem. The hostility that motivated your husband to abuse the pup is still with him. Your husband may appear to be "in good health," but he could well be mentally or emotionally upset. (P.S. And some will say you threw out the wrong dog.)

DEAR ABBY: I wish my in-laws would stop sending us gifts! They are so one-sided in their giving. I don't mean to sound like an ingrate, but at Christmastime and on birthdays they give us so much that I feel like a piker because we can't give them anything to match it. How can this be handled?

"THAT GIRL OUR SON MARRIED"

DEAR "THAT": Your signature revealed more information than your letter. You never have felt "accepted" by your in-laws. And if they gave you less, you'd probably complain more.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and I've got a problem. His name is Paul and he doesn't even know I'm alive. Every girl in school has flipped for him, including me. Some of the kids I hang around with have tried to find out if he likes me, but he doesn't say anything. I am not bad looking. In fact some people think I am cute. I have long blonde hair (natural) and large blue eyes. I've got everything but a good figure. (No curves.) I don't expect you to work miracles, Abby. I just want a little help in getting this guy to notice me.

BOY TROUBLE
DEAR TROUBLE: Sometimes the more "help" a girl has trying to get a boy to notice her, the faster he runs—away. Don't try too hard, and tell your friends to quit "helping" you, and you might catch him through the novelty of your indifference.

Hillsboro Man Dies
When Pinned by Tree

HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP)—The coroner has ruled that Lee D. Kelley, 29, died of suffocation while pinned under a tree. Coroner Glenn Doan said the victim and his father, Burch Kelley, were trimming a tree Wednesday when it shifted and pinned Kelley to the ground, face down. The accident happened on Kelley's nearby farm.

Germans Are Working Hard
For Good Living Standard

By OMER ANDERSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

BONN, West Germany — The Germans have a word for it—"Gründlichkeit."

This is the Teutonic thoroughness, a word symbolizing German industry ("fleissigkeit") as well as the leave-nothing-to-chance aspect of the German national character.

The Germans are especially proud of the aphorism, "The rest of the world works to live, but we Germans live to work." And so it surely seems. The proof is the rise of the German phoenix from the ashes of World War II.

But is German character as immutable as the universal cliché, "the hard-working Germans," would convey? The chief heretic in this respect is the man who should know — Ludwig Erhard. Not only is he now the German chancellor, but he is the architect of Germany's postwar recovery miracle.

Erhard spends very little time these days, however, in rejoicing over the miracle wrought. Rather, he warns his "hard working Germans" incessantly that they are growing lazy ("faul").

The chancellor is campaigning against further cuts in the work week, which have reduced it from 48 to 42 hours. This has not been done to provide more jobs — West Germany has the world's worst labor shortage — but simply because German labor demands more leisure.

Erhard is telling the Germans that they have the option of working harder or of cutting their living standard.

American production experts visiting Germany recently echo Erhard. They are appalled at the change that has come over the Germans. Some of them say efficiency in German factories has sunk to levels intolerable in the United States.

It is not all that black, of course. And it is not accurate to say that German's $50,000 "imported" Italian, Spanish and Greek workers are carrying the main burden of production.

However, the affluent life has overtaken the Germans, and the proof that the Germans like the rest of the world, now who live is Daimler Benz's crowning creation, the Grand Mercedes 600, costing $15,000.

The Grand Mercedes, compares with Britain's Rolls Royce as the ultimate automobile. However, the Mercedes is more than tremendous transportation.

It symbolizes the cresting of the German boom, the capping of the recovery miracle. It fills the void of the missing status symbol. No longer will Germany's red-faced tycoons be compelled to ride in Rolls Royces, Cadillacs, Imperials or Lincolns.

Good Policy To Train Family Pooch

By ELEANOR ROSS

Having next door neighbor problems? Don't know why, because you certainly have always tried to be a good neighbor?

Maybe it's because the family pooch has bad manners! Dogs are often the reason for neighborhood squabbles, rows that sometimes spill over into court cases.

City officials and newspaper editors constantly receive letters of complaint about dogs. But the blame doesn't always rest with the dog. Only too often, it lies with the dog's owner.

A sense of civic and community responsibility is a human quality — not an animal quality.

Christmas To Be Stark, Bleak For Tennessee Miner's Family

WHITWELL, Tenn. (AP)—The Leo Sanders family will pay scant attention this year to Dec. 25. As Christmas day, it will be stark and bleak.

At the end of a full year for southeast Tennessee's longest and bloodiest coal strike, it will have no special meaning. Like all days since 1959, it will be jobless, hopeless and hungry.

Sanders, 35, unskilled and illiterate, is one of thousands of former coal miners laid off long before the current walkout began. He and his wife, a tired 33, have seven children.

She expects her eighth baby in January.

"My husband worked in the mines when we married in 1948," said Mrs. Sanders, "but he was laid off four years ago. He hasn't worked since. Just what he could pick up, and there hasn't been much of that."

He has been getting $15 per week in benefits from the United Mine Workers Union, "but they're fixing to cut that out."

Dinner Meet Conducted by Lions Club

The Circleville Lions Club held its annual Christmas dinner meeting last night at the Wardell Party Home.

Terry R. Sover, a representative of Smith, Kline and French Laboratories, gave a talk on "Prescriptions for Tomorrow."

Harry Styers, the elected president for 63-64, turned in his resignation due to assuming a position at Waynesville. Azel Laughlin, vice president, moved into the president's chair for the unexpired term. George Wharton, second vice president, was elevated to Laughlin's post and the vacancy is to be filled at a future meeting.

Christmas carols were sang by the group under the direction of Clarence Radcliffe, with Mrs. Arthur Bowman as piano accompanist.

Everett Funk, chairman of the Sight Saving Committee, reported that he had examined the eyes of 1,217 pupils of Circleville schools and that 137 were referred for further examination by a doctor.

Guests for the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bowman.

Lutheran Brotherhood Meeting Set Today

The Trinity Lutheran Church Brotherhood will meet 7:30 p.m. today in the parish house.
An election of officers will be conducted. A program will include darts and the singing of Christmas carols.

Like so many families who live in the isolated mountain pockets which make up the southeast Tennessee coal fields, Sanders' future was set when he quit school, like his father before him, to work in the mines.

After World War II, 4,000 coal miners toiled in southeast Tennessee. As mountain mines closed in the face of mechanized competition from the central Plains States, the work force dwindled.

When the present UMW walkout began Dec. 26, 1962, only 600 union miners were affected. Three men have been slain since 100 miners defied entrenched union sentiment and returned to work without a contract.

The strikers seek a wage of $23.44-26.40 per day, plus 40 cents per ton royalty to the UMW welfare fund. The coal operators have offered $20.12 per day—paid the 100 working miners—plus 10 cents per ton royalty.

The issues in the strike parallel those in a $30-million antitrust suit filed against the UMW by a group of small coal operators and scheduled for trial in April. The southeast Tennessee operators accuse the union of conspiring with the big, mechanized coal operators of western Kentucky to freeze them from the giant Tennessee Valley Authority coal market.

TVA's Widows Creek steam plant, just across the state line at Bridgeport, Ala., is virtually the sole market for southeast Tennessee coal. But because of labor difficulties—present and past—TVA has turned to western Kentucky for the tremendous fuel quantities needed to operate the plant and generate electricity.

The operators say they cannot pay the UMW scale and compete economically with mechanized mines elsewhere for the TVA market. Only one mine in southeast Tennessee is fully mechanized.

Leo Sanders goes into the abandoned mines virtually every day to scratch for fuel for the pot-bellied stove which warms the 2-room house—a converted garage—in which his family has existed for the past six years.

"That was when our house burned down," said Mrs. Sanders. The eldest son, Isaac Grady, 13, lives across the road with his grandmother. "else she'd be all alone." He is in the sixth grade, likely the last schooling he'll ever know.

Baltimore Rookie Bids For NBA Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore's Gus Johnson, a first-year man from Idaho known for his rebounding skills, is making a strong bid for Rookie of the Year honors in the National Basketball Association.

Johnson, the second leading rebounder in the college ranks last year, hit 10 consecutive shots and wound up connecting on 17 of 22 tries for 38 points in the Bulls' 124-107 victory over Detroit Wednesday night.

Johnson the third leading scorer for Baltimore behind previous Rookie of the Year selections Walt Bellamy and Terry Dischinger, didn't miss a shot until the third period in raising his average to 15.6.

In other games, Eastern Division leading Boston walloped New York 133-111, San Francisco whipped St. Louis 104-96 and Los Angeles thumped Philadelphia 116-96.

John Havlicek scored 27 points, Sam Jones 23 and Tom Heinsohn 21 as the Celtics' balanced attack brought them their 22nd victory in 25 games.

Wilt Chamberlain scored only seven points in the first half and 27 altogether as San Francisco again beat St. Louis. The Warriors had to come from behind to drop the Hawks further behind Los Angeles in the Western Division. Veteran Bob Pettit led the St. Louis with 29 points.

Jerry West, with 30, and Elgin Baylor, with 28, sparked the Lakers against the 76ers. Chet Walker, with 19, was high for the 76ers, who fell out of contention after pulling within 76-63 in the third period.

AFL Rookie Honors Go To Billy Joe

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The American Football League's Rookie of the Year is a friendly young fullback with a troublesome name.

He's Billy Joe of Denver, whose powerful thrusts through the middle of opposing lines have inspired even more comments that his unusual last name.

"Billy Joe who?" is such a common response that Joe jokingly says he ought to change his last name to "Who."

And although he's a star, Joe often gets by using the alias "Billy Jones"—to avoid bothersome explanations.

"I can say 'Billy Jones,' they'll give me a key, and I can go on to my hotel room with no questions asked," he says.

Joe said he came into the league last fall with two ambitions: to gain Rookie of the Year honors and to grind out 1,000 yards on the playing field.

In 13 games he's netted 648 yards, averaging 4.2 yards per carry, and should add to the total in the season's finale against San Diego Sunday. His yardage total is tops for any rookie in the AFL.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

Decorations: Boughs of holly replace the somber drapes of mourning at the White House next week.

The official 30-day period of mourning for John F. Kennedy ends Sunday, and that evening President Johnson presses a button to light the national Christmas tree in the park behind the executive mansion.

Greetings to the troops: President Johnson sent Christmas greetings to the men and women of the armed forces Wednesday, declaring:

"This is the time of Christmas—when the spirit of peace and brotherhood burns brightly in the hearts of all men of good will."

"It is also a time of remembrance of the good things of the past—of the strength and courage of our dead President Kennedy; of the countless blessings with which our country and people have been favored."

"And, Christmas is a time for all Americans to be thankful for what is ours and what is promised us."

WHITWELL, Tenn. (AP)—The Leo Sanders family will pay scant attention this year to Dec. 25. As Christmas day, it will be stark and bleak.

At the end of a full year for southeast Tennessee's longest and bloodiest coal strike, it will have no special meaning. Like all days since 1959, it will be jobless, hopeless and hungry.

Sanders, 35, unskilled and illiterate, is one of thousands of former coal miners laid off long before the current walkout began. He and his wife, a tired 33, have seven children.

She expects her eighth baby in January.

High Court Agrees With Local Bench

The Ohio Supreme Court yesterday upheld a Pickaway County Common Pleas Court decision in refusing to award damages to the plaintiff of a civil action.

The high court upheld Judge William Ammer's refusal to award Otis Clary Jr. damages for the loss of three fingers in a power mower started by Leroy Diehl, a customer in Mac's Goodyear Store, E. Main St. The store is owned by D. E. McDonald.

Clary claimed negligence by McDonald and Diehl in the 1960 accident. Judge Ammer directed a verdict in favor of the defense in the initial proceedings.

"My husband worked in the mines when we married in 1948," said Mrs. Sanders, "but he was laid off four years ago. He hasn't hardly worked since. Just what he could pick up, and there hasn't been much of that."

He has been getting $15 per week in benefits from the United Mine Workers Union, "but they're fixing to cut that out."

Dinner Meet Conducted by Lions Club

The Circleville Lions Club held its annual Christmas dinner meeting last night at the Wardell Party Home.

Terry R. Sover, a representative of Smith, Kline and French Laboratories, gave a talk on "Prescriptions for Tomorrow."

Harry Styers, the elected president for 63-64, turned in his resignation due to assuming a position at Waynesville. Axel Laughlin, vice president, moved into the president's chair for the unexpired term. George Wharton, second vice president, was elevated to Laughlin's post and the vacancy is to be filled at a future meeting.

Christmas carols were sang by the group under the direction of Clarence Radcliffe, with Mrs. Arthur Bowman as piano accompanist.

Everett Funk, chairman of the Sight Saving Committee, reported that he had examined the eyes of 1,217 pupils of Circleville schools and that 137 were referred for further examination by a doctor.

Guests for the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bowman.

Lutheran Brotherhood Meeting Set Today

The Trinity Lutheran Church Brotherhood will meet 7:30 p.m. today in the parish house.

An election of officers will be conducted. A program will include darball and the singing of Christmas carols.

Like so many families who live in the isolated mountain pockets which make up the southeast Tennessee coal fields, Sanders' future was set when he quit school, like his father before him, to work in the mines.

After World War II, 4,000 coal miners toiled in southeast Tennessee. As mountain mines closed in the face of mechanized competition from the central Plains States, the work force dwindled.

When the present UMW walkout began Dec. 26, 1962, only 600 union miners were affected. Three men have been slain since 100 miners defied entrenched union sentiment and returned to work without a contract.

The strikers seek a wage of $23.44-26.40 per day, plus 40 cents per ton royalty to the UMW welfare fund. The coal operators have offered $20.12 per day—paid the 100 working miners—plus 10 cents per ton royalty.

The issues in the strike parallel those in a $30-million anti-

Baltimore Rookie Bids For NBA Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore's Gus Johnson, a first-year man from Idaho known for his rebounding skills, is making a strong bid for Rookie of the Year honors in the National Basketball Association.

Johnson, the second leading rebounder in the college ranks last year, hit 10 consecutive shots and wound up connecting on 17 of 22 tries for 38 points in the Bulls' 124-107 victory over Detroit Wednesday night.

Johnson the third leading scorer for Baltimore behind previous Rookie of the Year selections Walt Bellamy and Terry Dischinger, didn't miss a shot until the third period in raising his average to 15.6.

In other games, Eastern Division leading Boston walloped New York 133-111, San Francisco whipped St. Louis 104-96 and Los Angeles thumped Philadelphia 116-96.

John Havlicek scored 27 points, Sam Jones 23 and Tom Heinsohn 21 as the Celtics' balanced attack brought them their 22nd victory in 25 games.

Wilt Chamberlain scored only seven points in the first half and 27 altogether as San Francisco again beat St. Louis. The Warriors had to come from behind to drop the Hawks further behind Los Angeles in the Western Division. Veteran Bob Pettit led the St. Louis with 30 points.

Jerry West, with 30, and Elgin Baylor, with 28, sparked the Lakers against the 76ers. Chet Walker, with 19, was high for the 76ers, who fell out of contention after pulling within 76-63 in the third period.

trust suit filed against the UMW by a group of small coal operators and scheduled for trial in April. The southeast Tennessee operators accuse the union of conspiring with the big, mechanized coal operators of western Kentucky to freeze them from the giant Tennessee Valley Authority coal market.

TVA's Widows Creek steam plant, just across the state line at Bridgeport, Ala., is virtually the sole market for southeast Tennessee coal. But because of labor difficulties—present and past—TVA has turned to western Kentucky for the tremendous fuel quantities needed to operate the plant and generate electricity.

The operators say they cannot pay the UMW scale and compete economically with mechanized mines elsewhere for the TVA market. Only one mine in southeast Tennessee is fully mechanized.

Leo Sanders goes into the abandoned mines virtually every day to scratch for fuel for the pot-bellied stove which warms the 2-room house—a converted garage—in which his family has existed for the past six years.

"That was when our house burned down," said Mrs. Sanders. The eldest son, Isaac Grady, 13, lives across the road with his grandmother, "else he'd be all alone." He is in the sixth grade, likely the last schooling he'll ever know.

AFL Rookie Honors Go To Billy Joe

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The American Football League's Rookie of the Year is a friendly young fullback with a troublesome name.

He's Billy Joe of Denver, whose powerful thrusts through the middle of opposing lines have inspired even more comments that his unusual last name.

"Billy Joe who?" is such a common response that Joe jokingly says he ought to change his last name to "Who."

And although he's a star, Joe often gets by using the alias "Billy Jones"—to avoid bothersome explanations.

"I can say 'Billy Jones,' they'll give me a key, and I can go on to my hotel room with no questions asked," he says.

Joe said he came into the league last fall with two ambitions: to gain Rookie of the Year honors and to grind out 1,000 yards on the playing field.

In 13 games he's netted 648 yards, averaging 4.2 yards per carry, and should add to the total in the season's finale against San Diego Sunday. His yardage total is tops for any rookie in the AFL.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

Decorations: Boughs of holly replace the somber drapes of mourning at the White House next week.

The official 30-day period of mourning for John F. Kennedy ends Sunday, and that evening President Johnson presses a button to light the national Christmas tree in the park behind the executive mansion.

Greetings to the troops: President Johnson sent Christmas greetings to the men and women of the armed forces Wednesday, declaring:

"This is the time of Christmas—when the spirit of peace and brotherhood burns brightly in the hearts of all men of good will.

"It is also a time of remembrance of the good things of the past—of the strength and courage of our dead President Kennedy; of the countless blessings with which our country and people have been favored.

"And, Christmas is a time for all Americans to be thankful for what is ours and what is promised us."

Red sales: East Germany has bought $8,764,000 worth of American grain since President John F. Kennedy cleared the way on Oct. 9 for the sale of wheat and other agricultural products to the Soviet bloc.

Acheson mission: A proposal to send former Secretary of State Dean Acheson to Cambodia to talk with Prince Norodom Sihanouk is still "up in the air," according to State Department officials.

Sources said the suggestion Acheson undertake the mission was made by Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman in a conversation last week with Cambodian Ambassador Nong Kimmy.

The idea being that Acheson, a friend and champion of the Cambodian chief of state, might be able to heal the badly strained U.S. relations with the

Ohio River Expected To Start Icing Soon

CINCINNATI (AP) — U.S. Army Engineers said today the Weather Bureau is forecasting "difficult ice conditions" on the Ohio River within the next five or six days in pools at low level dams.

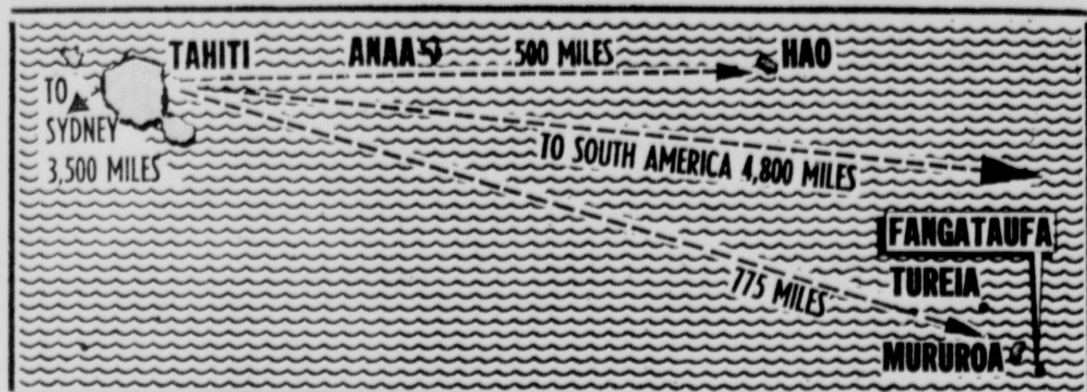

The river now is free of ice but tributaries are expected to freeze over within the next several days. The forecast was for light ice on the Ohio by Friday or Saturday and the report said it would thicken by next week "as the severe cold continues unabated."

Last year, 19 per cent of Americans' disposable income went for food.

French Plan Nuclear Tests Despite Combined Protests

Area involved in Australian, New Zealand protest at forthcoming French nuclear tests.

By ARTHUR SCHOLES
Central Press Association
Correspondent

SYDNEY, Australia — The French in the Pacific are unconcerned about the furore mounting in Australia and New Zealand against President Charles de Gaulle's nuclear tests.

Tahiti and Noumea, French colonial capitals in the south Pacific, are primarily concerned with the "financial fallout" from the proposed tests.

French Minister of State for Overseas Territories M. L. Jacquinot announced the tests would be carried out with the support of the local population. This was after he spent 15 days in Tahiti discussing local problems, including the forthcoming nuclear tests.

"The people have been fully informed about any risks inherent in the tests," he said. "In fact, if we moved the site of the tests, the Tahitians would not be at all happy. They are more fearful of the financial fallout which would follow than of the dangers of nuclear fallout."

Jacquinot said the tests had been approved by the elected Tahitian Territorial Assembly. "There have been only isolated complaints about the tests in Tahiti," he said. "Most of the complaints have come from outside French territory."

The French government could not understand the attitude of Australia and New Zealand to the tests. Australia and New Zealand had made no protests against American and Russian tests in the Pacific.

"Why protest against French tests and not against the others?" Jacquinot asked and then said the tests would go ahead as planned. The date was still secret.

The first of 300 Foreign Legionnaires are in Tahiti on their way to the test site at Mururoa Atoll, a palm-fringed reef 775 miles southeast of Tahiti.

French nuclear weapons expert Gen. A. Thirty, who has been appointed commanding general of the tests, said the base will cost $15 million, not counting the cost of the bombs. His estimate includes the cost of building two new airports on Anaa and Hao atolls, which are expected to be used after the tests for an air service between Sydney and South America, via Tahiti and Easter Island.

On two other remote atolls, Tureia and Fangataufa, French technicians are constructing radar installations, weather stations, quarters and observation bunkers.

The islands chosen for the experiments are part of the Paumotu, Low of Dangerous Archipelago, comprising about a dozen large atolls and numerous small islets and reefs in Australia and New Zealand.

land members of Parliament and trade union leaders have protested to France about the forthcoming tests. The New Zealand Federation of Labor has decided that an economic boycott of French goods should be urged if De Gaulle remains obdurate.

Australian Minister for External Affairs Sir Garfield Barwick has sharply criticized France's refusal to halt the tests. And New Zealand's government has made an official protest to Paris over the tests. Protests have also been made by several South American countries.

Meanwhile, France appears determined in attempting to develop an H-weapon for its new Mirage IV bombers and a warhead for its Polaris-type submarines.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — If you find the stores jammed this week and downtown sidewalks unusually crowded you can seek the reason in government statistics:

—There are 1.5 million more persons on payrolls this year than last.

—Factory workers weekly earnings are at a record $101.09 and average hourly pay is at a record $2.49, or 8 cents more than a year ago.

—Overtime in manufacturing plants averaged three hours a week at latest count, and in the auto industry it was 6.4 hours.

—Profits of manufacturing firms are climbing to more than 10 per cent above last year.

All of this forms the background for the record December sales which the nation's stores seem sure to set.

And with the shopper flush, but still bargain conscious, the store aisles are crowded both days and evenings. Merchants have plenty of competition — downtown stores with suburban shopping centers, department stores with discount stores—and most newspapers are filled with promotional advertising.

Larger payrolls in factories tell only a part of the story.

The big gain in employment this November over last, the Labor Department reports, was in the service industries, up 77 per cent from 1962, and now accounting for 34 per cent of all payroll employment.

Nonfarm jobs now number 58,304,000. Manufacturing employment is now 17,241,000 of that, for a gain of 218,000 over last year. So, for all of the higher wage scales, longer work weeks and more overtime in factories, the big increase in spending money can be traced to others than the producers of goods.

Many saw their incomes increase this fall from other than payroll sources. Dividend payments are running well ahead of a year ago, thanks largely to a marked increase in corporate profits. Outlays from pension and other funds and from interest on savings also are fattening the shoppers' purses.

Government statisticians figure that about 80 per cent of the population is sharing to some extent in the increase in incomes this year from one source or another. The other 20 per cent is still the nation's stickiest problem.

But the more fortunate ones are crowding store aisles and the sidewalks between stores.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — If you find the stores jammed this week and downtown sidewalks unusually crowded you can seek the reason in government statistics:

—There are 1.5 million more persons on payrolls this year than last.

—Factory workers weekly earnings are at a record $101.05 and average hourly pay is at a record $2.49, or 8 cents more than a year ago.

—Overtime in manufacturing plants averaged three hours a week at latest count, and in the auto industry it was 6.4 hours.

—Profits of manufacturing firms are climbing to more than 10 per cent above last year.

All of this forms the background for the record December sales which the nation's stores seem sure to set.

And with the shopping flush, but still bargain conscious, the store aisles are crowded both days and evenings. Merchants have plenty of competition — downtown stores with suburban shopping centers, department stores with discount stores—and most newspapers are filled with promotional advertising.

Larger payrolls in factories tell only a part of the story.

The big gain in employment this November over last, the Labor Department reports, was in the service industries, up 77 per cent from 1962, and now accounting for 34 per cent of all payroll employment.

Nonfarm jobs now number 58,304,000. Manufacturing employment is now 17,241,000 of that, for a gain of 218,000 over last year. So, for all of the higher wage scales, longer work weeks and more overtime in factories, the big increase in spending money can be traced to others than the producers of goods.

Many saw their incomes increase this fall from other than payroll sources. Dividend payments are running well ahead of a year ago, thanks largely to a marked increase in corporate profits. Outlays from pension and other funds and from interest on savings also are fattening the shoppers' purses.

Government statisticians figure that about 80 per cent of the population is sharing to some extent in the increase in incomes this year from one source or another. The other 20 per cent is still the nation's stickiest problem.

But the more fortunate ones are crowding store aisles and the sidewalks between stores.

Inheritance Tax Total Is $92,451

Inheritance taxes collected in Pickaway County in 1963 were $92,451 as compared with $102,595 in 1962, it was reported by Roger W. Tracy, auditor of the state.

Under the law, one-half of the collections goes to the township or municipality where the tax originated and the other half goes to the state after adjustments are made for fees charged by County auditors and treasurers to defray the cost of collection.

Total inheritance taxes collected in Ohio during calendar 1963 amounted to $28,169,714.37, according to Tracy. He reported this as a record high for one year.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

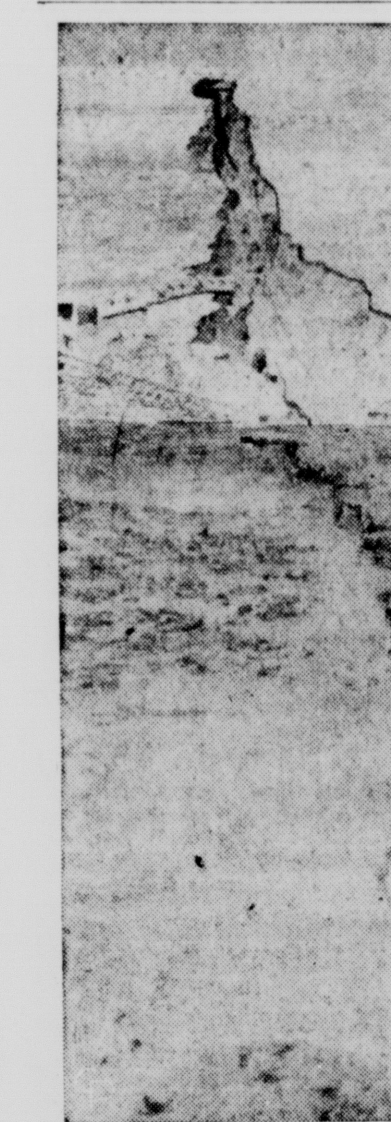

The bitterly cold air mass which settled over the mid-section of the nation Wednesday night was responsible for the frigid temperatures in Ohio early this morning.

The only sections of Ohio that escaped sub-zero readings were portions across the northern counties and down along the eastern section where there were some clouds and scattered snow flurries.

There appeared to be no relief from the present cold wave. The latest weather map showed another mound of arctic air over western Canada poised to move south and east to re-enforce the cold air now covering the state.

Scattered snow flurries today, tonight and Friday will occur most frequently in the northern and eastern portions of Ohio.

Temperatures early today included Dayton and Cincinnati 7 below, Toledo 4 below, Columbus 3 below, and Cleveland 4 above.

THIS BIG CRACK at bottom of the Baldwin Hills Reservoir in Los Angeles is believed to have caused the big break (beyond) that emptied the reservoir onto scores of homes. A water department official thinks the crack opened up just before the reservoir embankment went.

Ashville News Report

By Mrs. Arthur Deal Jr.
Phone YU 3-6111

The Ashville Community Club and the Ashville Women's Civic Club once again is sponsoring the annual Christmas Home Decorating Contest for residents.

Judging will take place Dec. 26 between 7 and 9 p. m. Entry blanks will not be necessary. Judges, yet to be named, will be from out-of-town.

Classes and prize money will be: 1. best overall decorated home, $15, $10 and $5; 2. best decorated entrance (door), $10, $5 and $2.50; 3. best decorated outside tree, $10, $5 and $2.50.

The point system for judging will be: first — design and confirmation; second — use of color; third — lighting effect; fourth — development of theme. A maximum of five points can be earned in each class.

The Ashville PTA will meet 7:30 p. m. Thursday for a Christmas program and meeting in the school auditorium.

The program is "Know Your Ministers." Special Christmas music will be presented by Mrs. Janet Houk and Everett Mehler, vocal instructors in the Ashville School.

The annual Past Chancellor's Banquet was held by Ashville's Palmetto Lodge 513, Knights of Pythias.

Following a turkey dinner served by the Pythian Sisters, the annual election of officers and balloting for officers of the Grand Lodge occupied most of the business meeting.

Officers elected for 1964 were: chancellor commander, John Little; vice chancellor, Lt. Col. Ben Jennings of Falls Church, Va., and a former resident of Ashville, spent Thursday evening with the Jim Courtwrights and was an overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Purcell and family.

Ashville Girl Scout Troop 259 attended the performance of "Cinderella" Saturday at the Veterans Memorial in Columbus. The Columbus Symphony Orchestra presented the musical.

Girls attending were Janet Acord, Karen Lombardo, Angela Roese, Linda Noggle, Margie Watson, Ruth Wolfe, Beverly Moody, Barbara Edwards, Vivian Sheets, Jane Clay, Debbie Flowers, Susie Sabine, Jody Deal, Bonnie Peters and Linda Piester. Also attending were Mrs. Tom Purcell and Mrs. Jack Wolfe, leaders.

The Homemaking I class of Teays Valley High School conducted a Christmas Tea for their mothers on December 5 from 1 to 3 p. m.

Eighteen guests came to hear the Christmas program and to see the holiday lighting display. Janice Harber gave the welcome.

A girls' ensemble composed of Linda Van Meter, Linda Neal, Peggy Tucker, Dianne Brown, Betty Fish, Arlene Putney, Judy Schwalbach and Darlene Friend sang Christmas carols. Betty Fisher and Peggy Tucker added seasonal spirit by presenting appropriate readings.

Mrs. Marilyn Lee, home service agent for South Central Rural Electric Co., demonstrated Christmas lighting decorations for the home. Most of the decorations were fashioned from ordinary home articles.

Colorful refreshments were served from a table covered with a green linen cloth, accented with burning tapers circled with greenery. Christmas cookies, which had been made in class, and punch were served by a student committee.

The senior class of Teays Valley High School is sponsoring a Christmas Dance Friday evening from 9 to midnight in the school cafeteria. Dottie Hammon's Band from Columbus will be featured.

The dance is open to the public. Tickets will be available at the door.

The Ashville Junior High basketball team will play Washington Twp. Thursday on the home floor beginning at 4:30 p. m. These games are open to the public. The Ashville team is undefeated to date.

Charles Messick; prelate, Don Hedges; master-at-arms, William Winner; inner guard, William Plum Jr.; outer guard, Don Quillen; secretary, Ray Lindsey; financial secretary, Robert Glick; treasurer, Claude Kraft; master of work, Harry Hedges; trustee, Steve Cook; lodge deputy, Edwin Irwin; representative to the Grand Lodge, Harry Sark; and alternative representative, Warren Brown.

Seventeen past chancellors were present for the meeting. Distinguished visitors included Kenneth Hess, former grand chancellor of Ohio and present superintendent of the Pythian Home at Springfield; Frank Hudson, grand treasurer of Ohio; and Harry Borror, deputy grand chancellor of this district.

Visitors were present from the Pythian Home in Springfield and Philos Lodge of Circleville. Edwin Irwin presided at the meeting.

The Christmas Musical program, presented by the Teays Valley Mixed Chorus and Concert Band, and the visiting Logan Elm Mixed Chorus Sunday in the Teays Valley Auditorium, was well attended.

Performances by each of the groups and the combined choirs were termed excellent. Miss Mary Joe Gaskalla, music instructor at TV, conducted the local groups. Robert Petty, music instructor at Logan Elm, conducted his chorus.

The program included: the Logan Elm High School Choir singing "Adoration of the Magi"; the Teays Valley High School Choir singing, "Honor and Glory" "Carol of the Drum," assisted by Betty Pritchard, and "Go Tell it on the Mountains," with Bob Hines singing the tenor solo and Nancy Tosca and Diana Richardson singing the soprano solo.

The combined choruses sang "Gloria" with Miss Gaskalla directing and "Hallelujah," directed by Mr. Petty.

The Teays Valley Concert Band presented "Ring Those Bells," "Holiday," "Noel," "Greensleeves," and ended with a "Christmas Sing Along" with the audience singing carols with the band.

The Ashville Methodist Sunday School will present its annual Christmas program Sunday in the church beginning 7 p. m. Following a short program by the Nursery and Kindergarten classes the upper grades will present the playlet "Everywhere, Everywhere, Christmas Tonight."

Following the program a social hour will be held in the church basement with the appearance of Santa Claus. Each family is requested to bring a dozen cookies.

Luke, a Greek Physician, Tells Most Details of Christ's Life

EDITOR'S NOTE—Only in Luke can the story of the origin of Christ's coming be found. Here, in the fourth of five Christmas articles, is how this Greek physician went about gathering the story of Jesus' birth.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Of the women, little was known. And he wondered. In the depths of women, behind the watchfulness of their eyes and the stillness of their lips, lay untold secrets. Luke would seek to learn them.

Heretofore, none of the disciples had sought to do so. It was a notable omission.

To Luke, a cultured, urbane Greek physician, there could not be sufficient understanding of Jesus without inquiring into what the women knew of it. In every design, women fill a part.

Luke purposed to discover it. From time to time, trains of traders passed, woolbuyers returning to Tyre or Sidon with packed mules; camels laden with wine casks from Cyprus.

By foot it was about a three-day journey from Caesarea to Jerusalem, but it had taken him five. Several times he had stopped to treat the afflicted.

Beside the vials and instruments he carried with him, a quiver of quills hung at his side, and a pouch of folded papyrus. He already had been in Galilee, gathering facts for his book, and he now proceeded into Judea.

As he later stated in his introduction, he set down information "delivered to us by those who from the beginning were eyewitnesses." It included material about Christ's coming unrevealed in any other document.

Of particular note was what he ascertained from women to whom most scholars in those days paid scant heed.

Luke, a Gentile heathen converted to Christianity, had become an associate of the missionary Paul, who had been arrested for sedition in 58 A. D., and was in Roman custody in Caesarea. He was kept in jail there for two years.

During that period, it is feasible that Luke made his investigations. Most of those who had known Jesus, in the flesh, still lived.

Luke learned that the Apostle John had sold his property in Galilee and purchased a house on Mount Olivet for Mary, the mother of Jesus.

There, Luke must have found her and talked with her, for the account he gives could have come from no other source.

It was a deeply personal account, how the angel had come to her, frightening her. "Hail, O favored one, the Lord is with you." She had been just a girl then, a promised bride, deeply devout, and afraid. "The power of the Most High will overshadow you; therefore the child to be born will be... the son of God."

This, and much else, Luke learned... of Mary's distraught visit to her aunt, Elizabeth, who offered reassurance, "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb."

Luke, in compiling his account, obtained exclusive disclosures not only about Mary and Elizabeth, but also about other women to whom Christ's coming brought testing and opportunities.

It was the aged Anna, Luke learned, who stirred such agitation at the temple when the child, Jesus, was brought there by Jewish custom, for his dedication.

It may be that Luke gave such attentive ear to women, partly because his friend and teacher, Paul, customarily advised them to keep silent. Doing otherwise, Luke elicited their help and brought unknown details to light.

He also uncovered the boyhood episode, when Jesus disappeared from a family caravan returning to Nazareth, and after a frantic search by his parents, was found at the temple talking with learned rabbis.

Through his inquiries in Jerusalem and Bethlehem, coupled with what he had heard in Galilee, Luke also determined the historical circumstances that had caused Joseph to take his bride away from home in her pregnancy.

"In those days," Luke learned "a decree went out from Caesar

Augustus that all the world should be enrolled. This was the first enrollment when Quirinius was governor of Syria. And all went to be enrolled, each to his own city.

"And Joseph also went up from Galilee, from the city of Nazareth, to Judea, the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David, to be enrolled with Mary, his betrothed, who was with child."

"And while they were there, the time came for her to be delivered. And she gave birth to her first-born son and wrapped him in swaddling cloths, and laid him in a manger, because there was no place for them in the inn."

Luke stood inside the limestone grotto, which inhabitants thereabouts had pointed out to him as the place. There, still, he could see the hollowed-out rock food trough for oxen where the child had lain.

There, the gentle woman had washed Him with salt water, warmed by Joseph over an open fire. There she had wrapped Him around and around with long strips of muslin to hold His body firm and stimulate breathing through his nostrils.

Things had been difficult then as they still were for believers. Luke worked with caution in his interviews at the crowded Bethlehem inn and elsewhere, lest undue suspicion be aroused against him.

Along an outlying road Luke encountered a young lad crying and imploring passers-by for help. Luke was led by the youth to a shepherd's camp where an old man lay with a broken leg.

He had been hurt in a fall. Luke set the leg and was prevailed on to take supper with the shepherds. There, around the campfire, he gained other special remembrances for his book.

Luke did not finish his writing until later, probably in Rome following the execution of Paul, after 65 or 70 A. D. Luke himself, tradition says, lived on until he was 74, and died a bachelor in Thebes.

But this cultivated doctor, with his consideration for women and his artistic touch, left the sole record of some of the most memorable cameos of Jesus.

prodigal son; the lost sheep. He saw the human side of Jesus, his responsiveness not only to men but to women, customarily relegated to a secondary place in those times.

One of the most stirring scenes was gleaned from those shepherds he had befriended. They told him how they had trembled as the sky brightened at midnight and rang with a glad proclamation:

"Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which will come to all the people; for to you is born this day in the city of David, a Savior, who is Christ, the Lord."

Film Craftsmen Issue Quick LBJ Documentary

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Let Us Continue" is the title of a documentary film which has been put together in record time by a pair of expert Hollywood craftsmen.

On the day of President John F. Kennedy's assassination, a telephone call came from the United States Information Agency to Rod Sterling and Bill Froug, creator and producer of

"Twilight Zone."

They were asked if they would be willing to produce a documentary about the new President. They said they would.

On Sunday of that fateful weekend, the two film makers were at the USIA office in Washington. They were told what questions should be answered in the film:

Who is Lyndon B. Johnson? How will his ascendancy to presidency affect the Alliance for Progress? How will it affect developing nations? What is his attitude toward the United Nations? How does he stand on Berlin? The nuclear test ban? Integration?

Froug and Sterling were asked if they could produce the film in five days. They answered that was impossible, but they would work as fast as they could—at no charge to the government.

The two men dropped their own activities to hole up in New York.

"Rod got a typewriter, a secretary and a dictating machine and went to work on a narration," said Froug. "I sat in the projection room of a newsreel company that USIA had contracted with, and I watched hours of film, hunting for anything that was usable on President Johnson."

In two weeks Froug and Sterling had put together a rough cut, and Froug flew to Washington with the can of film under his arm. He showed it with some trepidation to the assembled USIA officials, including chief Edward R. Murrow.

After it had been run, Murrow said, "I think it's a superb job."

Sterling finished the narration last week and read it on the film himself. As soon as the documentary gets the final okay, presumably from the President, it will be sent throughout the world in such languages as Spanish, French, Portuguese, Arabic, Japanese and Swahili.

Four Gospels of Christmas

Luke, a Greek Physician, Tells Most Details of Christ's Life

EDITOR'S NOTE—Only in Luke can the story of the origin of Christ's coming be found. Here, in the fourth of five Christmas articles, is how this Greek physician went about gathering the story of Jesus' birth.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Of the women, little was known. And he wondered. In the depths of women, behind the watchfulness of their eyes and the stillness of their lips, lay untold secrets. Luke would seek to learn them.

Heretofore, none of the disciples had sought to do so. It was a notable omission.

To Luke, a cultured, urbane Greek physician, there could not be sufficient understanding of Jesus without inquiring into what the women knew of it. In every design, women fill a part.

Luke purposed to discover it. He strode along the road. From time to time, trains of traders passed, woolbuyers returning to Tyre or Sidon with packed mules; camels laden with wine casks from Cyprus.

By foot it was about a three-day journey from Caesarea to Jerusalem, but it had taken him five. Several times he had stopped to treat the afflicted.

Beside the vials and instruments he carried with him, a quiver of quills hung at his side, and a pouch of folded papyrus. He already had been in Galilee, gathering facts for his book, and he now proceeded into Judea.

As he later stated in his introduction, he set down information "delivered to us by those who from the beginning were eyewitnesses." It included material about Christ's coming unrevealed in any other document.

Of particular note was what he ascertained from women to whom most scholars in those days paid scant heed.

Luke, a Gentile heathen converted to Christianity, had become an associate of the missionary Paul, who had been arrested for sedition in 58 A. D., and was in Roman custody in Caesarea. He was kept in jail there for two years.

During that period, it is feasible that Luke made his investigations. Most of those who had known Jesus, in the flesh, still lived.

Luke learned that the Apostle John had sold his property in Galilee and purchased a house on Mount Olivet for Mary, the mother of Jesus.

There, Luke must have found her and talked with her, for the account he gives could have come from no other source.

It was a deeply personal account, how the angel had come to her, frightening her. "Hail, O favored one, the Lord is with you." She had been just a girl then, a promised bride, deeply devout, and afraid. "The power of the Most High will overshadow you; therefore the child to be born will be... the son of God."

This, and much else, Luke learned... of Mary's distraught visit to her aunt, Elizabeth, who offered reassurance, "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb."

Luke, in compiling his account, obtained exclusive disclosures not only about Mary and Elizabeth, but also about other women to whom Christ's coming brought testing and opportunities.

It was the aged Anna, Luke learned, who stirred such agitation at the temple when the child, Jesus, was brought there by Jewish custom, for his dedication.

It may be that Luke gave such attentive ear to women, partly because his friend and teacher, Paul, customarily advised them to keep silent. Doing otherwise, Luke elicited their help and brought unknown details to light.

He also uncovered the boyhood episode, when Jesus disappeared from a family caravan returning to Nazareth, and after a frantic search by his parents, was found at the temple talking with learned rabbis.

Through his inquiries in Jerusalem and Bethlehem, coupled with what he had heard in Galilee, Luke also determined the historical circumstances that had caused Joseph to take his bride away from home in her pregnancy.

"In those days," Luke learned "a decree went out from Caesar

Augustus that all the world should be enrolled. This was the first enrollment when Quirinius was governor of Syria. And all went to be enrolled, each to his own city.

"And Joseph also went up from Galilee, from the city of Nazareth, to Judea, the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David, to be enrolled with Mary, his betrothed, who was with child.

"And while they were there, the time came for her to be delivered. And she gave birth to her first-born son and wrapped him in swaddling cloths, and laid him in a manger, because there was no place for them in the inn."

Luke stood inside the limestone grotto, which inhabitants thereabouts had pointed out to him as the place. There, still, he could see the hollowed-out rock foot trough for oxen where the child had lain.

There, the gentle woman had washed Him with salt water, warmed by Joseph over an open fire. There she had wrapped Him around and around with long strips of muslin to hold His body firm and stimulate breathing through his nostrils.

Things had been difficult then as they still were for believers. Luke worked with caution in his interviews at the crowded Bethlehem inn and elsewhere, lest undue suspicion be aroused against him.

Along an outlying road Luke encountered a young lad crying and imploring passers-by for help. Luke was led by the youth to a shepherd's camp where an old man lay with a broken leg.

He had been hurt in a fall. Luke set the leg and was prevailed on to take supper with the shepherds. There, around the campfire, he gained other special remembrances for his book.

Luke did not finish his writing until later, probably in Rome following the execution of Paul, after 65 or 70 A. D. Luke himself, tradition says, lived on until he was 74, and died a bachelor in Thebes.

Monroe Cager
Paces County
Scoring Race

Tom Seely of Monroe is the leading cage scorer in the county to date. In nine games he has tallied 159 points for an average of 17.6 per game.

However, his position is jeopardized by at least four other cagers in the county, all of whom are scoring at a more rapid rate per game.

Only three points behind the Indian hardwood is Dan Bowen of the Darby Trojans with 156 points in seven tilts. His average of 22.3 per game is high in the county.

From Williamsport, Larry Beard has a total of 153 markers in eight games for an average of 19.1 per tilt and Rick Fenstermaker has 150 points for an average of 18.7.

DAVE ROWLAND of Darby is fifth in the total scoring with 145 markers but ranks second in game average at 20.7.

From Rowland's total, there is a difference of 32 points to that of Dwight Whaley and Bob Sparks of Jackson. Both are 113 points.

Whaley has gained his total in eight games for an average of 14.1. Sparks has appeared in nine games for an average of 12.5.

Bruce List of Jackson has a total of 107 points for a 13.3 average.

These eight cagers are the only ones in the county to break the 100-point mark so far this season.

Teays Valley and Logan Elm, both competed in football and have not played as many games as other county schools.

JEFF LUTZ has tallied 72 points in five games for an average of 14.4 to pace the Braves while Bob Kuhlwein has 65 points in four games for an average of 16.2 markers per tilt to pace the Vikings.

Top scorer in the area is Glenn Burchwell of Centralia. The rugged Bulldog forward has been scorching the nets at an average of 26.6 points per game in nine outings for a total of 240.

He has never scored under 20 this season and has a high game of 38, recorded at Amanda.

Steelers Swap
Star Receiver

PITTSBURGH (AP) — In a surprising and completely uncharacteristic move, Coach Buddy Parker of the Pittsburgh Steelers has traded star pass receiver Buddy Dial to the Dallas Cowboys for the drafts rights to All-America tackle Scott Appleton of Texas.

The unpredictable Parker, in announcing the deal Wednesday, said he had to make a swap to bolster his defensive line and that Appleton, the Cowboy's No. 1 draft choice, was "the best man available."

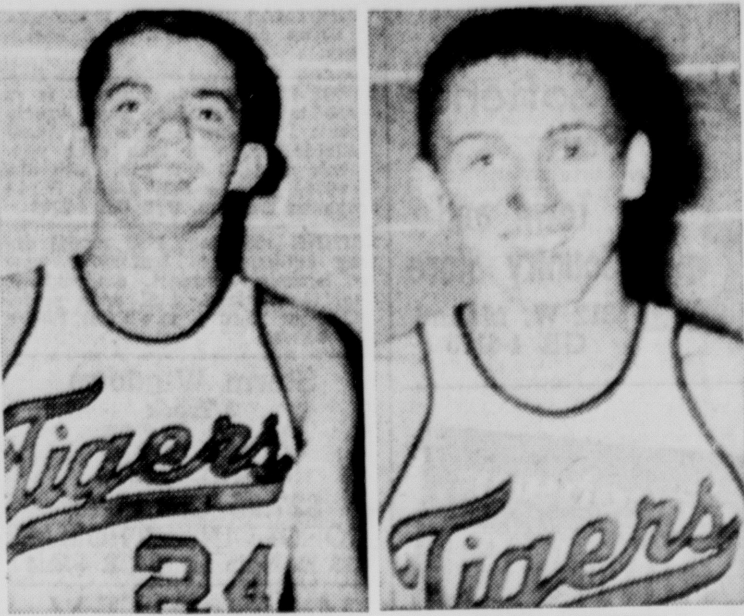

"I know a lot of people are going to be upset because we traded Dial," Parker said, "but we feel we've got plenty of receivers, especially with (Paul) Martha and (Jim) Kelly added to what we now have."

Doug Dunkel and John Thomas are members of the Circleville High School basketball varsity squad. Dunkel, a senior is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dunkel, Route 3. He is 5-feet 9-inches tall, and is a candidate at forward. He is a member of the Stooze club and is the sergeant at arms of the Senior class. Thomas, 6-feet 2-inches tall, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Thomas, Route 2. He is a junior and led the SCO championship reserve team in rebounding last year with a total of 210. He plays forward.

Toledo, OU
Cagers Tumble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toledo and Ohio University went East and got jolted from the unbeaten ranks, and Wittenberg took an injury jolt on top of an existing one, but Cincinnati and Miami went West and brightened the Ohio college basketball picture by regaining top stride.

Highlights of a 10-game card, mostly inter-sectional, for Buckeye college cagers Wednesday night included Cincinnati's rousing 82-64 victory at formidable Colorado and Miami's 67-61 upset of Purdue on the Big Ten School's campus.

Low spots were Toledo's 63-59 loss to Villanova at Philadelphia and Ohio U.'s 58-45 reversal by Army at West Point.

Wittenberg, already missing top scorer Al Thrasher with a knee sprain that is expected to keep him out of tonight's game with Westminster (Pa.), learned that ace rebounder Bob Cherry will be out of action for at least three or four weeks. X - Rays Wednesday showed that Cherry fractured his right hand when he struck the rim of the basket in Tuesday night's Muskingum game.

The end of the six-game winning streaks Toledo and Ohio U. had posted left Ohio with five undefeated teams. Three of these played Wednesday night. Dayton (6-0) whipped Lamar Tech of Beaumont, Tex., 85-73. John Carroll (6-0) thumped case Tech 68-57 in the Presidents' Conference, and Capital (6-0) routed Randolph-Macon 87-72.

Capital's triumph came in the first round of the eight - team Quantico Marines Invitational Tournament at Quantico, Va., where the other Ohio entry, Ohio Northern, fell 90-67 to West Chester (Pa.).

Otterbein lost in overtime 88-83 to Indiana Central in the first round of the host school's four-team invitational at Indianapolis, and in intrastate play, Heidelberg cracked the winning column for the first time, 75-74 over Ashland on Henry Fowler's four points in the last minute.

Villanova sprang a shifting zone defense that befuddled Toledo in the early going and the ninth - ranked Rockets never caught up. Ray Wolford scored 20 points and Larry Jones 17 for Toledo, but the Wildcats' Wally ones got 18 and stung the Rockets with brilliant ball-handling and passing.

Army (4-1) soared to a quick 15-3 lead over Ohio 7, and put down all rallies before they seriously threatened. Jerry Jackson led Bobcat pointmakers with 16.

Miami (5-2) employed a fast break well in pulling out from a 33-33 midway deadlock with Purdue. Jeff Gehring as usual paced the Redskins, with 24 points, while Skip Snow turned in a fine defensive job on Boilermaker star Mel Garland, limiting him to 12.

Dayton's two sophomore starters, Henry Burlong and Henry Finkel, sparked in repulsing the Lamar invaders. Each scored 22 points, and Burlong nabbed 19 rebounds.

Kaline Signs
Fat Contract

DETROIT (AP) — Al Kaline signed his 1964 contract with the Detroit Tigers Wednesday and almost immediately began talking about the coming season.

The Tigers' all-star outfielder reportedly signed for $62,000, a raise of about $6,000 from last year. This makes him the second highest paid player in Detroit history. Hal Newhouser reportedly got as much as $72,000 at the height of his career.

Kaline missed almost two weeks of play during the 1963 season, but still batted .312, second best in the American League. He had 27 home runs and 101 runs batted in.

OSU Leads U.S. Colleges
With Grid Attendance

NEW YORK (AP) — Ohio State, a traditional powerhouse at the turnstiles, led the nation's colleges to a record football attendance of over 22 million in 1963, despite the cancellation of 34 games because of the assassination of President Kennedy.

Statistics released today by the NCAA Service Bureau, show a record jump of 1,009,932 over the 1962 season, pushing the total attendance to 22,237,094. The NCAA estimates the canceled games would have added 268,900 to the total.

The attendance marked the 10th consecutive year in which college football has recorded gains. In 1953, attendance was 16,681,731.

Ohio State, meanwhile, was the individual leader for the 12th time in 13 years, although Michigan had the highest attendance count. Michigan is the only team to interrupt the Buckeyes' domination, winning the title in 1957.

Ohio State was No. 1 with an average attendance of 83,205 per game, an increase of 264 a game over the 1962 figure. Michigan attracted 424,728 to the Buckeyes' 416,023, but played seven home games to Ohio State's five.

Cager's Mask
Is Given Nod

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Dayton Wilbur Wright High School has a basketball player who looks like an interplanetary visitor when he takes the court for interscholastic competition. He wears a grotesque mask, covering most of his face, to protect a fractured jaw.

The school had qualms about the hard plastic mask Rick Lewis has worn the past two games. It asked Commissioner Paul E. Landis of the Ohio High School Athletic Association if the mask was all right.

Landis pointed out that OH-SAA rules demand all athletic protective items must be padded to prevent injury to other players. Wilbur Wright agreed to put foam rubber padding on Lewis mask before the game Friday night.

Veteran Tobin Rote Wins
Top Honor for AFL Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Tobin Rote, a restless man who had played in three pro leagues, was named Most Valuable Player in the American Football League today for his job of directing the San Diego Chargers close to a championship.

The 35-year-old former Green Bay, Detroit and Toronto quarterback, received 15 of the votes cast by a panel of 24 sports writers and sportscasters for the Associated Press. Each city was represented by three voters.

Way back in 1950 Rote broke into the National Football League at Green Bay. That was the year Y. A. Tittle also played his first NFL ball with Baltimore after two years in the All-America Conference. In 1957 he took over at quarterback for the Detroit Lions after Bobby Layne had suffered a broken leg in a late season game, and led the Lions in a 59-14 rout of the Cleveland Browns in the NFL title game. Rote threw four TD passes, including one on a fake field goal, and also scored once on a plunge.

The former Rice star moved to Toronto in 1960 after playing out his option in the NFL. He played out his option in Canada, too, where he was reported getting $32,000 and came to San Diego this season at $30,000 a year.

Although Rote was troubled by bursitis in late season and had trouble throwing the long ball, he was the big man for Sid Gillman's Chargers, who need only one more victory to clinch the Western Division title.

Rote's 1963 figures show 163 completions in 270 attempts for 2,401 yards and 19 touchdowns. Lance Alworth, an exceptionally fine flanker back and top receiver of Rote's passes at San Diego, drew four MVP votes.

Clem Daniels, Oakland's fine running back who has been up near the top in the rushing race all season, drew two votes as a key man in the surprising surge of the Raiders. Archie Matsos, Oakland's middle linebacker, acquired from Buffalo in an off-season trade, also got one vote.

Seven of the last eight Kentucky Derby winners had prep races at Florida's Hialeah course. They were Chateaugay, Decidedly, Carry Back, Venetian Way, Tim Tam, Iron League and Needles.

Monroe Cager Paces County Scoring Race

Tom Seeley of Monroe is the leading cage scorer in the county to date. In nine games he has tallied 159 points for an average of 17.6 per game.

However, his position is jeopardized by at least four other cagers in the county, all of whom are scoring at a more rapid rate per game.

Only three points behind the Indian hardwooder is Dan Bowen of the Darby Trojans with 156 points in seven tilts. His average of 22.3 per game is high in the county.

From Williamsport, Larry Beard has a total of 153 markers in eight games for an average of 19.1 per tilt and Rick Fenstermaker has 150 points for an average of 18.7.

DAVE ROWLAND of Darby is fifth in the total scoring with 145 markers but ranks second in game average at 20.7.

From Rowland's total, there is a difference of 32 points to that of Dwight Whaley and Bob Sparks of Jackson. Both are 113 points.

Whaley has gained his total in eight games for an average of 14.1. Sparks has appeared in nine games for an average of 12.5.

Bruce List of Jackson has a total of 107 points for a 13.3 average.

These eight cagers are the only ones in the county to break the 100-point mark so far this season.

Teays Valley and Logan Elm, both competed in football and have not played as many games as other county schools.

JEFF LUTZ has tallied 72 points in five games for an average of 14.4 to pace the Braves while Bob Kuhlwein has 65 points in four games for an average of 16.2 markers per tilt to pace the Vikings.

Top scorer in the area is Glenn Burchwell of Centralia. The rugged Bulldog forward has been scorching the nets at an average of 26.6 points per game in nine outings for a total of 240.

He has never scored under 20 this season and has a high game of 38, recorded at Amantia.

Steelers Swap Star Receiver

PITTSBURGH (AP) — In a surprising and completely uncharacteristic move, Coach Buddy Parker of the Pittsburgh Steelers has traded star pass receiver Buddy Dial to the Dallas Cowboys for the drafts rights to All-America tackle Scott Appleton of Texas.

The unpredictable Parker, in announcing the deal Wednesday, said he had to make a swap to bolster his defensive line and that Appleton, the Cowboy's No. 1 draft choice, was "the best man available."

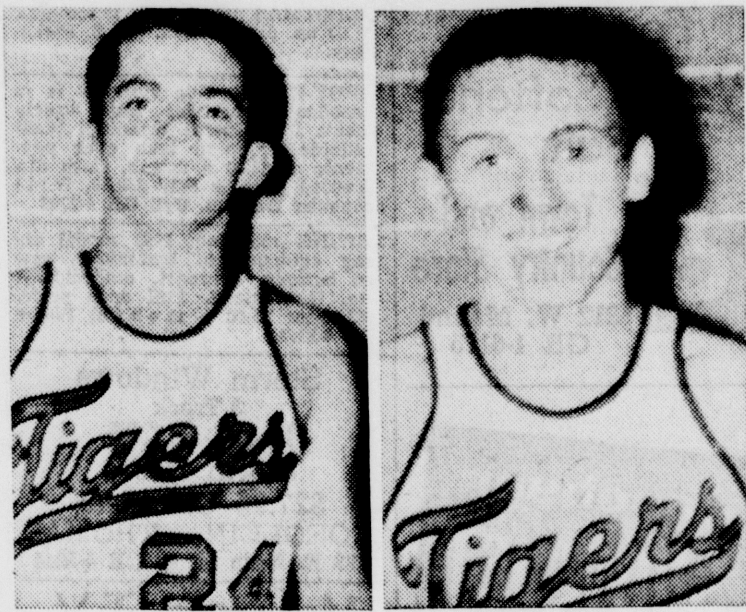

"I know a lot of people are going to be upset because we traded Dial," Parker said, "but we feel we've got plenty of receivers, especially with (Paul) Martha and (Jim) Kelly added to what we now have."

Hannahs Receives Letter at Iowa

Larry Hannahs, a graduate of Circleville High School, was one of 29 gridders at Iowa State awarded a varsity letter recently.

Hannahs, a three year veteran at Iowa, was an end. At Circleville he played fullback. He was one of eight seniors who completed their college football careers at Iowa this fall.

Thomas, 6-feet 2-inches tall, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Thomas, Route 2. He is a junior and led the SCO championship reserve team in rebounding last year with a total of 210. He plays forward.

Toledo, OU Cagers Tumble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toledo and Ohio University went East and got jolted from the unbeaten ranks, and Wittenberg took an injury jolt on top of an existing one, but Cincinnati and Miami went West and brightened the Ohio college basketball picture by regaining top stride.

Highlights of a 10-game card, mostly intercollegiate, for Buckeye college cagers Wednesday night included Cincinnati's rousing 82-64 victory at formidable Colorado and Miami's 67-61 upset of Purdue on the Big Ten School's campus.

Low spots were Toledo's 63-59 loss to Villanova at Philadelphia and Ohio U.'s 58-45 reversal by Army at West Point.

Wittenberg, already missing top scorer Al Thrasher with a knee sprain that is expected to keep him out of tonight's game with Westminster (Pa.), learned that ace rebounder Bob Cherry will be out of action for at least three or four weeks. X-Rays Wednesday showed that Cherry fractured his right hand when he struck the rim of the basket in Tuesday night's Muskingum game.

The end of the six-game winning streaks Toledo and Ohio U. had posted left Ohio with five undefeated teams. Three of these played Wednesday night. Dayton (6-0) whipped Lamar Tech of Beaumont, Tex., 85-73. John Carroll (6-0) thumped case Tech 68-57 in the Presidents' Conference, and Capital (6-0) routed Randolph-Macon 87-72.

Capital's triumph came in the first round of the eight-team Quantico Marines Invitational Tournament at Quantico, Va., where the other Ohio entry, Ohio Northern, fell 90-67 to West Chester (Pa.).

Otterbein lost in overtime 88-83 to Indiana Central in the first round of the host school's four-team invitational at Indianapolis, and in intrastate play, Heidelberg cracked the winning column for the first time, 75-74 over Ashland on Henry Fowler's four points in the last minute.

Fourth-ranked Cincinnati (4-1) snipped a 28-game home court victory string for Colorado's Buffaloes as Ron Bonham meshed 32 points and George Wilson 21.

Villanova sprang a shifting zone defense that befuddled Toledo in the early going and the ninth-ranked Rockets never caught up. Ray Wolford scored 20 points and Larry Jones 17 for Toledo, but the Wildcats' Wally ones got 18 and stung the Rockets with brilliant ball-handling and passing.

Army (4-1) soared to a quick 15-3 lead over Ohio 7, and put down all rallies before they seriously threatened. Jerry Jackson led Bobcat pointmakers with 16.

Miami (5-2) employed a fast break well in pulling out from a 33-33 midway deadlock with Purdue. Jeff Gehring as usual paced the Redskins, with 24 points, while Skip Snow turned in a fine defensive job on Boiler-maker star Mel Garland, limiting him to 12.

Dayton's two sophomore starters, Henry Burlong and Henry Finkel, sparked in repulsing the Lamar invaders. Each scored 22 points, and Burlong nabbed 19 rebounds.

themselves entering 1964 in the same old rut? No special skills, limited formal education and a growing family with growing obligations. A new and enlightening future awaits you, but you must act now!
Success, financial security, independence: which do you want? Give one hour of your time and I'll show you how to attain all three. Qualifying interviews will be held Monday, December 23 at 1:00, 3:00, and 5:00 p.m. and Tuesday, December 24 at 10:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. Apply at 82 W. Water Street, Chillicothe, Ohio.

PUBLIC NOTICE
To any department or agency of the State of Ohio or any political subdivision thereof, or any quasi public board or agency:
PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, THAT:
(1) Pursuant to Secs. 123.681 and 123.682, Revised Code, pertaining to the sale or transfer of certain unnecessary or unused State canal lands, the Department of Public Works is conducting a survey to determine the future need of said canal lands for projects of public nature. A portion of said canal lands, referred to as Parcel No. O&E-PIC-2956-8992, is described as follows:
PARCEL NO. O&E-PIC-2956-8992
Being that portion on the abandoned Ohio & Erie Canal lands located in Sec. 22, T. 2, R. 32, Wanit Twp., Pickaway Co., Ohio, presently leased to Charles H. Radcliff, beginning at Sta. 2956 plus 89.92 of the right of the State, thence continuing southerly and including the full width of the canal lands 86.90 ft. more or less, to Sta. 2957 plus 86.92 being an irregular shaped parcel containing 15.583 135 sq. ft. more or less, and further described on Albright Survey Plat No. 185 on file in the Department of Public Works, Columbus, Ohio.
(2) Applications for the above described land may be submitted to ALFRED C. GIENOW, DIRECTOR, DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS, 707 OHIO DEPARTMENT BUILDING, Columbus 15, Ohio, and must be on file on or before January 6, 1964.
(3) All applications shall be accompanied by evidence, satisfactory to the Director of Public Works that lands sought to be obtained will be used solely for public purposes.
(4) If no application is received within the above specified time, it will be assumed that no department or agency of the State of Ohio or any political subdivision thereof, or any quasi public board or agency, has any present or future need for the above State canal land, and said land will then be sold to the above named lessee in accordance with Sec. 123.681, Revised Code.
ALFRED C. GIENOW,
DIRECTOR

The New
POLAROID®

WORLD'S MOST ADVANCED CAMERA

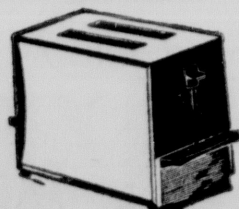

The Polaroid Color Pack Camera is the most advanced camera in the world and yet amazingly easy to use. It has a transistorized electronic shutter that lets it do things no other camera can do . . . measure the brief burst of a flash-bulb automatically, for instance, and make a perfect exposure. The smallest and lightest camera ever made by Polaroid, it produces beautiful color pictures in 50 seconds, black-and-white pictures in 10 seconds.
